Tornado Kills Ten Members of Single Family in Tennessee

By The Associated Press

Tragedy draped its sombre black today over the motley of capricious winter.

Dandelions still bloomed in Ontario, and there was bawling on the green in the north country; but ten were dead from a tornado that threshed through two Tennessee farming communities and heavy snows and dropping temperatures chilled sections of California.

The Tennessee tornado killed ten members of a single family and injured three other near Trenton; and houses were upset and other property damaged.

Wyoming, Montana and New Mexico were cold and clear, while snow blocked highways in southern Idaho, Nevada. Had temperatures that dipped down to a minus 35. The Dakotas and Nebraskas, buttoned tight their reefers as the mercury hit zero.

Floods pounded against Mississippi delta levees as many families fled to higher ground. The explosion of dynamite echoed along the Tallahatchie as homeowners sought to save their property at the expense of others by dynamiting the levees and loosing the flood waters.

Canada was a contradiction of seasons, with sub-zero cold in the western provinces and temperatures in the 60's in Ontario and even in the maritime provinces.

Floods Near Ottawa

Near Ottawa there were flood waters, with an ice jam threatening destruction of a dam and a bridge across the Quyon river. Streets of Quyon were flooded, and nearby farm lands inundated.

Richmond, Va., never saw a Jan. 14 as hot as yesterday's 78, and Norfolk's 77 was the highest since 1871.

New England's ice and snow was melting under a sun that brought reports of robins and fishing tackle and lawns yellowed by dandelions.

At Owosso Lake, near Auburn, N.Y., the kids were swimming. Fishermen were pulling foolish fish from Lake Chautauqua—nice calico bass that usually run in May. A regulation nine-inning baseball game was played at Uniontown, Pa., under a temperature of 73.

Today's weather predictions were discouraging for the dandelions, the swimmin' holes and the calico bass.

In parts of the middle west the promise was "much colder" weather. For Pennsylvania and West Virginia there was likelihood that spring would continue her fling.

Concerning the far west, the weather bureau remarked:

"A disturbance of considerable intensity is approaching the Pacific coast and another is centered over southern Alaska."

TENNESSEE TRAGEDY

Trenton, Tenn. (AP)—Ten members of a family were killed and three others injured yesterday when a tornado whipped through two farming communities bowling over houses and barns.

The dead: P. W. Rice, 45; Mrs. P. W. Rice; Opal Rice, 17; Hazel Rice, 14; Edith Rice, 9; James E. Rice, 4; Horace Rice, 10; P. W. Rice, Jr., 9, a six-month old baby and Elsie McDaniel, 3, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rice.

Little hope was held for the recovery of Lucille Rice, an eleventh member of the family which lived near Lex, Tenn. She, Ila Rice, and May Ann Rice were in a hospital at Dyersburg, Tenn. Eight members of the family were killed almost instantly when the tornado shattered their home.

The father and James E. Rice died several hours later.

Broken telephone lines prevented complete reports of the storm's damage but it was understood that at least ten or twelve buildings in or near the Lex and Eaton communities had been destroyed.

The dead and injured were picked up over a radius of several hundred yards among parts of the house, one child was blown so far his body was not found for several hours.

ECONOMIC PLAN IS OFFERED BY U. S. EXPERTS

Group Believes Adoption of Program Would Revive
American Business

(Copyright, 1932, Associated Press)

New York (AP)—A group of the leading economists of the United States, after two months of interchange of opinion, have agreed upon a program of economic action which they believe should revive business, restore values, increase employment and strengthen banks.

Warren M. Persons, prominent economist, in an exclusive interview with the Associated Press today, said the program has been endorsed by trade associations, congressmen, government economists, farm organizations and prominent individuals. Its success, he said, depended upon wide cooperation of important interests, particularly industrialists and bankers, and that it seemed assured.

Their program is relatively simple, and Dr. Persons explained, represents the least common denominator of effective platforms upon which agreement seemed possible.

They start out from these four general conclusions:

"—Thought some important adjustments of various elements of cost and overhead remain to be made, the general contraction of credit and deflation of prices have gone far enough.

"—The United States can have substantial business recovery without waiting for a solution of Europe's difficulties.

"—Recovery is possible, on a sound money basis without recourse to monetary panaceas, but—

"—The depression will not cure itself, and requires prompt, intelligent and vigorous action."

Favor Four Steps

Then the economists recommend the four following steps:

"—The enactment of the bill establishing the reconstruction finance corporation to deal more effectively with emergency situations.

"—Proper economy in municipal, state, and national budgets, and increased taxation.

"—A liberal federal reserve policy, designed to check credit contraction and encourage some expansion.

"—A commercial banking policy co-operating with the reserve banks in checking credit decreases and encouraging increases, including "—An increase in sound investments.

"—Cooperation in aiding necessary treasury financing.

"—Borrowing from federal reserve banks when necessary to meet these and other sound needs."

They express the conviction that prosecution of these policies is sound, involves no important risks.

and should exert powerful pressure toward these four ends:

"—Stopping the downward trend of prices.

"—Returning hoarded money to the banks.

"—Restoring the normal value of securities, and

"—Starting the beginning of business recovery."

Support Required

Economists and others in the action taken, Dr. Persons explained, freely offer their services "in a non-partisan and disinterested movement to defeat further economic suffering and destruction, but other interests, particularly industrialists and bankers, must be rallied upon to make any program effective." The program, he said, was not drawn up to advance any private interest of members of the group, other than as private interests may be served by general business recovery.

Dr. Persons, consulting economist and former professor of economics at Harvard, is chairman of the group.

"The first problem," he explained, "was to ascertain if there was a sound economic program which could be expected to work and the second was so to develop it that a representative group of leading economists of the United States could jointly endorse it. The third problem was to obtain the support of all interests in the country necessary to make the program effective. The first two problems are solved, and the third is in rapid process of solution."

"United on a sound program, we can and will defeat the forces of deflation; divided, we shall, ourselves, be deflated and impoverished and our gold standard imperilled. It is for us to decide whether, in 1932, enlightened cooperative action is to replace unenlightened individualistic action, whether business expansion is to replace business contraction and whether the wages of employed labor are to be resumed, or substituted for doles to unemployed."

The economic group is as yet incomplete, as Dr. Persons said he is receiving further endorsements, but now includes:

Prof. T. S. Adams of Yale, member of the fiscal committee of the league of nations; Prof. E. L. Bogart, University of Illinois, retiring president of the American Economics association; Prof. T. N. Carver, Harvard, president of American Economic association; Prof. J. M. Clark, Columbia; Prof. John R. Commons, University of Wisconsin; Prof. John H. Cover, University of Chicago; Victor Clark, consultant in economics, Library of Congress, former editor of Living Age; Prof. J. S. Davis, director Food Institute, Stanford; Prof. Carroll W. Doten, Massachusetts Institute of Technology; E. Dana Durand, former director of the U. S. Census; Prof. J. T. Ebersole, Harvard Graduate School of Business, formerly economist, U. S. Treasury department; Prof. Irving Fisher, Yale; David Fribold, Washington, economist; Prof. Jacob H. Hollander, Johns Hopkins University, Virgil Jordan, economist, McGraw-Hill publications; Prof. Edwin W. Kemmerer, Princeton, monetary consultant to several governments; Max O. Lorenz, statistician, Interstate Commerce commission; Prof. Harry E. Miller, Brown university; Prof. Harold L. Reed, Cornell; Father John A. Ryan, Catholic university, Washington; Prof. I. Leo Shafman, University of Michigan; Prof. Walter Spahr, New York university; Prof. Walter E. Willcox, Cornell, vice president Institute Internationale de Statistique.

Three bank bills were given tentative approval. The Grobschmidt bill preventing the formation of chain banks was engrossed as was his bill for a Central State Reserve bank. The assembly also engrossed a bill by Assembly G. Erie Ingram, East Claire, which calls for the creation of clearing house associations. It seeks to curb the growth of chain banks when those banks are owned by interests outside of Wisconsin.

MISS M'CARTHY GIVES UP GAVEL TO SUCCESSOR

Recent President of Wisconsin Teachers' Association
Remains on Board

At a state meeting of the new and old directors of the Wisconsin Teachers' Association in Milwaukee Friday night, Miss Blanche McCarthy, Appleton high school teacher, will officially hand her presidential gavel to the incoming president, C. J. Brewer, head of the State Teachers' college at Eau Claire. Miss McCarthy will remain on the 1932 board of directors.

Convention chairmen for next year will meet with the new board Saturday morning at Schroeder hotel, where the meetings will be held. Attending from Appleton will be Herbert H. Heible, representing state high schools as president of the High School Principals' association, and Mrs. Jessie Collins, chairman of the Orthopedic school section.

Members of the Teachers' Training Council, a division of the state association, will meet Friday night with O. H. Plenske, chairman of the group. Prof. Richard E. Thiel of Lawrence college and Herbert H. Heible are both members of this committee, representing private colleges and high schools in the state. The council, organized two years ago, has been active during the past year working out a philosophy of education for Wisconsin schools.

Credit Union Formed
Organization of the Teachers' Credit Union was the most outstanding project of the association under Miss McCarthy's term. The establishment of this group has been an aid to state teachers inasmuch as they may borrow money for advanced education from this group, which is subscribed to as an investment by other teachers in the state. It is pointed out, Miss McCarthy is one of the directors of this organization, which provides a mutual loan and savings association for members of the teachers' association.

One of the active state committees during 1931 is the research committee on character education, headed by Frank Younger, principal of McKinley junior high school. Miss Ruth Saeger, Appleton high school teacher, heads the Code of Ethics committee which is working out a professional ethical code for Wisconsin teachers.

Group insurance during the past year has been an important step in clearing the way for group policies for teachers, inasmuch as this has been the first time life insurance has been issued in this manner to teachers.

More than 130 legislative bills pertaining to education were analyzed and summarized by the state organization and brought to the attention of all teachers last year. Other committees which have been functioning during the year include the reorganization committee which is still working on an effective plan of reorganization in the state; the propaganda committee; administrative unit committee; the committee on certification which has studied certification laws in connection with the standards and efficiency of teachers; and the committee on guidance which is working out new developments in the educational field.

WILL HONOR OLDEST
MOTHER AT CAPITAL

Women's Clubs to Take Part in Selection of Candidates for Homage

The General Federation of Women's Clubs has agreed to cooperate with the District of Columbia George Washington bicentennial commission in selecting the mother who is to be honored in Washington, D. C. on next Mother's Day, May 8, 1932.

Mrs. Horace E. Stedman, president of the ninth district, Wisconsin Federation of Women's Clubs, is searching for the eldest mother in this district, and asks the cooperation of all who are interested in seeing the eldest mother honored. The 10 districts in Wisconsin will each present a name to the state board meeting in February, and the eldest mother so named will be Wisconsin's nominee. In turn the eldest mother amongst the state nominees will be the one to be honored. She will represent the motherhood of our country, and will receive every homage possible. To quote from the District of Columbia commission:

"On Mother's day, which has been set for May 8, 1932, by act of congress, we plan to entertain in the city of Washington, as the nation's guest, the eldest native-born mother, whose health is sufficiently sound so that she may stand the strain of the trip to Washington and the inevitable excitement of the occasion."

We are seeking the native-born mother, who on one side of her ancestry comes of the proven stock which helped to make the United States. We are searching for the oldest mother who can come to Washington as a symbol of motherhood, to receive the honors of the nation, thus honoring the memory of May Ball Washington, George Washington's mother.

This mother will be safeguarded in every way, and while in Washington will be under the special care of the American Medical profession. All transportation and entertainment will be complimentary.

Steve Otis, Hortonville, Heads Fish And Game Association

150 SPORTSMEN ATTEND ANNUAL MEETING IN CITY

Duane H. Kipp Discusses Reforestation and Forest Protection

Steve Otis, Hortonville, was elected president of the Outagamie Fish and Game association at the annual meeting at Hotel Northern last night. He succeeds M. M. Bacon, Appleton, who was elected treasurer, a new office created this year.

There were about 150 men at the meeting, which was preceded by a pheasant dinner. About 60 of the men were from nearby communities, including Dale, Stephensville, Medina, Hortonville, Kaukauna and Black Creek.

Other officers elected last night are: R. J. Meyer, vice president; A. S. Bradford, secretary; Henry Brandt, Black Creek; Al Van Stratton, Shiocton; Emil Duester, Hortonville, Herman price, Dale; J. J. Jansen, Kaukauna; Charles Stude, Stephensville; C. A. Miller, H. H. Bowly, Douglas Kaufman, Gustave Sell and Buy Barlow, Appleton, directors.

Members of the nominating committee were C. H. Huesman and W. T. Hughes, Appleton, and A. L. Collar, Hortonville.

Mr. Meyer presented a report, accompanied by motion pictures, outlining the work accomplished by the association during the past year. He told of the establishment of four fish ponds in Outagamie co., one at Weyauwega, two at Waupaca, two at Pelican lake and one at Wolf lake.

4,000 Fish Planted

From the county ponds there were 3,000 bass and 1,000 trout taken and planted in waters in the county. Next year the association plans to establish several more rearing ponds and to raise crappie, sunfish, perch, bullheads and other species.

The speaker told of planting about 400 pheasants in the county this year and of expectations of planting approximately 1,000 birds during 1932. He also told of the building of more than 20 winter bird feeding stations, with the help of boy scouts of the county. He said these stations will insure the life of the birds through the winter.

Establishment of two wild life sanctuaries and wild life refuge was completed during the year. One of the sanctuaries is at Tulelah park in Appleton, and the other is at Potato Point on the Fox river. The wild life refuge of 1,600 acres is in the town of Ellington. He discussed plans for establishing other refuges and sanctuaries in the county. Mr. Meyer predicted that in a few years the county waters and woods would be stocked with game fish, birds and animals to such an extent that sportsmen again will be able to enjoy hunting and fishing trips without going to the northern woods.

C. F. Criller, La Crosse, superintendent of state fisheries, promised to aid sportsmen in securing fish for the propagation work.

Talks On Forests

The principal address was given by Duane H. Kipp of the educational department of the Wisconsin Conservation commission. He discussed the values of forests and reforestation and protection of forests. He illustrated his talk with lantern slides pictures.

Wisconsin missed a great opportunity 50 years ago when it failed to take steps to protect the forest it then owned, Mr. Kipp told the sportsmen. Today the state has 17,000,000 acres of idle land which can be of no use except for reforestation. He pointed out that no single agency, either state, federal or individual, could hope to do the entire job of reforestation alone, but that all would have to work together to accomplish a common end.

He said that this year the state is undertaking the largest reforestation program and forest protection program in its history. He said that at present the forest protection service has 56 lookout stations throughout the wooded areas and that recently construction of 29 additional was ordered. When these are completed, Wisconsin's entire acreage will be protected.

The speaker said these stations are manned 24 hours per day from about April 1 until snow flies. He discussed the manner in which the lookouts sight fires and send out alarms, thus setting machinery in motion to battle the flames. He showed pictures of men at work fighting forest fires and discussed the various ways in which this is done.

Protect Forest

Mr. Kipp pointed out that it is as important to protect forests that are still standing as it is to begin a reforestation program. He said that the beauty of the forests, their economic value, and their value as shelter, protection and refuge for game birds, animals and fish make them invaluable to the state. Wisconsin's beauty is a forest beauty which attracts thousands of tourists to the state each year, he said, and this valuable asset is worth protecting.

DELEGATES OF 6TH DISTRICT GET FREE HAND

Will Go Instructed to G. O. P. Convention in Chicago — Hoover Lauded

Fond du Lac — (P) — Although commanding the administration of President Hoover "for its efforts to maintain the stability and credit of the United States," the Sixth Congressional District Republican club has voted to send its delegates to the national convention in Chicago uninstructed.

The decision was reached at a meeting here yesterday in preparation for state and national campaigns. It was the first of a series of rallies planned by Republican clubs throughout the state and party leaders had hoped the national delegates would be instructed to support the renomination of President Hoover.

Gov. Philip LaFollette was criticized in a resolution for "playing politics" with relief legislation. The resolution, unanimously adopted, commended stalwart Republican members of the legislature for opposing the governor's program.

Club members voted thanks to John B. Chapple, Ashland editor, "who without hope of or political advantage has devoted time and energy to exposing the danger of Communism, Socialism and Marxism, all parading under the guise of Progressivism and LaFollette."

Dry Law Issue

Another resolution adopted after much discussion, dealt with the enforcement of prohibition laws.

"Because of the evident failure of enforcement of the eighteenth amendment," the resolution said, "it is the consensus of the Sixth District Republican club that this amendment be resubmitted this amendment to the action of the people by ballot and be it therefore resolved that we recommend to the state convention that they take some action presenting our wishes to the national Republican convention."

W. J. Campbell of Oshkosh, was recommended as a delegate at large to the national convention. Charles Bernard, Oshkosh, and W. H. Johnson, Kiel, were named district delegates to the state convention.

About 50 persons from Calumet, Fond du Lac, Green Lake, Manitowoc, Marquette and Winnebago cos., attended the meeting. William Knauf, Chilton, presided and Mr. Bernard was named permanent secretary.

In this report the prisoner was described as "Walter Smith, 33, of 51 Fifth-ave. Former Governor Smith lives at 51 Fifth-ave and when this address was at last noticed by reporters investigation quickly revealed the identity of the youth.

Describes Accident

Smith accompanied by Frances B. Smith, formerly of Malden, Mass., and said to be a relative was driving on Lexington-ave about 2:30 a.m., when the accident occurred. He told police Wallace stepped in front of the car. He placed Wallace in the car and drove with him to Harlem hospital. Hospital authorities notified police and Detective Michael Miniter arrested him.

After spending the night in the police station Smith was taken to homicide court where he was placed in the detention pen. His brother, Alfred E. Smith, Jr., an attorney, was in court to defend him.

When the case was called before Magistrate H. Stanley Renaud, Smith was represented by John J. Glynn, of the law firm of Curtin and Glynn. There was no hearing and Smith was released in $1,000 bail for examination next Thursday.

Smith appeared much shaken and shielded his face with his hat from photographers. Before the case was called Magistrate Renaud ordered all photographers to leave and announced he would entertain a charge of disorderly conduct against any who tried to take Smith's picture in the courtroom.

Glynn asked that the case be adjourned, explaining that his client is attending college and expected to sit in examinations.

The speaker said these stations are manned 24 hours per day from about April 1 until snow flies. He discussed the manner in which the lookouts sight fires and send out alarms, thus setting machinery in motion to battle the flames. He showed pictures of men at work fighting forest fires and discussed the various ways in which this is done.

CHAMBER PRAISES FAIRFIELD'S WORK

Lauds Former Member of Park Board for "Unselfish Services"

Services of Dr. Otho P. Fairfield of Lawrence college on the Appleton park board, as they are reflected in the Appleton park system, are lauded in a resolution recently adopted by the board of directors of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce.

The resolution follows:

"Whereas, Dr. Otho P. Fairfield has served the City of Appleton unselfishly and with honor to himself and to the community, as a member of the Appleton Park commission since its organization, and

"Whereas, the services of Dr. Fairfield are reflected in the excellent park system which the city possesses, and

"Whereas, his counsel and his love and understanding of all that is beautiful has been of inestimable value not only to the board of park commissioners, but to the community as a whole, now, therefore,

"Be it resolved, by the board of directors of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce, that this organization officially extend to Dr. Fairfield its sincere appreciation for his unselfish efforts in behalf of the city, and express the hope that he will continue his interest in the development of Appleton parks."

BURGLARS BREAK INTO SHIOTON DANCE HALL

The soft drink parlor and dance hall of Melville Hiller, Shiocton, was burglarized at 2 o'clock this morning. Entrance was gained through a rear window shortly after a dance last night. Fifty dollars in cash and about $100 worth of stock, including cigars and cigarettes, were taken. Footprints in the snow which led from the street to the open window of the pool hall back of the soft drink parlor indicate that more than one person entered the building.

ROBBERY NOW HELD MOTIVE IN 2 MURDERS

Authorities Think Mrs. Isley and Maid Surprised. Marauder at Work

Middlebury, Va. — (P) — A simplified theory of the motive behind the brutal murder of Mrs. Boeing Isley and her maid was adopted by authorities today as their search for the suspected killers spread to wider territory.

Proceeding on the belief that George Crawford, discharged Negro employee of the wealthy sportsman, committed the crime with the aid of an accomplice, the officers said they had practically decided robbery was the motive, although no valuables were taken.

The murderer, as they reconstructed the crime, sought money or valuables and planned no killing until he found himself recognized. Then Mrs. Isley and her elderly servant, Mina Buckner, were beaten to death. The crime took place Tuesday night or early Wednesday morning in a cottage on the estate of the sports-loving widow of Spencer Isley, Milwaukee banker.

Somewhere in Virginia five Negroes, four of them men, one a woman, were held today as material witnesses. Officers were sure the quintet had been in touch with Crawford just before or after the murder. Their whereabouts and names were kept secret as a protection against violence. Hope of capturing the suspects themselves rested increasingly on activity of police forces in eastern and southern cities, for it was generally believed the men had left this immediate vicinity. Identity of the second suspect still was problematical.

Evidence held by Washington police which they considered linked Crawford definitely with the crime was disclosed today to consist of a letter, apparently in his handwriting, found in Mrs. Isley's automobile which was abandoned near the capital the day after the crime. The letter, addressed to John B. Chapple, Ashland editor, who without hope of or political advantage has devoted time and energy to exposing the danger of Communism, Socialism and Marxism, all parading under the guise of Progressivism and LaFollette."

Postmaster Clarence Loescher of Menasha, a member of the valley club, will act as toastmaster at the dinner meeting. The valley club constitutes the arrangements committee. Over 1,100 invitations were sent out by this group.

Bride said, adding, "under present conditions there is a real fight on . . . The prohibition issue has not been so clear in the last eight years as formerly, nor as clear cut as it will be from now on."

Majority Not Security

He told the board congressional tests so far had been mostly on matters of enforcement rather than prohibition. He warned "even a majority of 221 in both houses of congress does not mean absolute security."

McBride advised the league directors to be non-partisan in attitude, and "not commit support for any candidate at the election until after both conventions have adjourned." He added the hope each of the leading parties would nominate dry candidates and adopt platforms favorable to enforcement.

He urged a vigorous fight against resubmitting the prohibition question to the states.

Reports on the educational activities and legislative accomplishments of the past two years were submitted by Ernest H. Cherrington, director of the education department of the league, and E. B. Dunford, counsel.

Campaign plans and a declaration of policy, before the directors in a morning executive session, are expected to be made public later today. The league opens its 25th convention tonight.

CONFESSON DENIED BY MRS. SCHARMAN

Appleton Woman Says She Did Not Set Two Fires in Her Home

Trial of Mrs. Mary Scharman, Appleton, charged with setting fire to her home to collect insurance on personal property, continued today in municipal court. The state completed its testimony this morning, but the case is not expected to go to the jury today. Judge Theodore Berg is presiding.

W. E. Finnegan, Green Bay, deputy state fire marshal, one of the witnesses Friday morning, told the commission that the blazes found in Mrs. Scharman's home the morning of Nov. 28, 1931, were started intentionally. There were two blazes in the house. Appleton firemen testified one in a hall and another in a closet with two doors separating them. They had not broken out because there was no draught.

Mrs. Scharman took the stand in her own defense this morning, denying that she set the fires. She stated her alleged confession was taken under duress, that she remembered the first few lines, but that she did not recall having signed it.

376 BOYS EXAMINED SO FAR AT CLINIC

Three hundred and seventy six high school boys have been examined so far at the student health clinic sponsored at the Appleton Woman's club by the Outagamie Co. Medical society and Appleton high school. The clinic was not held today because of the monthly baby clinic at the club. The clinic will continue Monday and last through next week, according to Miss Mary Orbison, school nurse in charge of the clinic.

MILK COMPANY SUED FOR ADVERTISING BILL

The suit of the Criterion Advertising company versus the Appleton Pure Milk company over a contract and payment for bill board advertising was started before a circuit court jury today. Judge Edgar V. Werner is presiding.

The advertising company claims it entered into contract with the milk company for bill board advertising for 36 months and that payment of $30.50 on the contract was made. Thereafter the advertising was continued despite the fact the milk company refused to continue payments, it is alleged.

STATE COMMENDS COUNTY NORMAL

Praises Music Program Which Has Become Part of Curriculum

A highly commendatory letter on the county normal school at Kaukauna has been received by A. G. Meating, county superintendent of schools from John Callahan, state superintendent of schools, at Madison. The letter follows a visit by Miss Leavelay Bradbury, state department inspector at the Kaukauna school several weeks ago.

The state department praised cooperation with Kaukauna grade schools, suggested that more books be added to the library, and warned that the four teachers are not quite sufficient for the 90 students.

"You are fortunate," the report states, "in the music that is now an established part of your curriculum. It would be a fine contribution if a similar course could be given in every county normal."

The music program is the same as that held in county schools, according to the county superintendent of schools. A supervisor directs a program similar to that which teachers will direct in schools later on.

ASK BUSINESS MEN TO MEET FARMERS

Milk Producers Group Wants to Explain What It Plans to Do

Appleton business and professional men contacting with farmers will meet Monday evening at the Appleton State Bank building to hear a discussion of plans, purposes and aspirations of a committee of county milk producers hoping to set up the Appleton Milk Producers association.

Letters inviting the business men to meet with the milk producers organization were sent out by Gustav A. Sel, county agent, this week.

The letter points out that farmers are associating together, not with the idea of going into manufacturing or distribution of milk, running anyone out of business, or holding up dealers and consumers. The farmers wish to collectively deal with milk marketing problems, which includes quality and better service for the consumer as well as a fair price for their product, the letter says. There is no thought of raising the price to the consumer, it is pointed out.

BRITISH TARIFF WALL MAY HURT U. S. BUSINESS

Englishman Says Americans
Must Build Plants in England for Protection

BY BRADLEY W. TRENT
Copyright, 1932, By Cons. Press

New York —(CPA)— American manufacturers who exhibited keen interest in the visit of John Roland Robinson, England's youngest member of parliament, on a mission for British industrialists, were advised today by Captain T. H. Parkhouse, Mr. Robinson's associate here, to act quickly if they wished to avoid complete loss of their British business.

Mr. Robinson, who has just sailed for Southampton to make his report to the industrial leaders at home, informed Captain Parkhouse that a number of American manufacturers were making plans to establish branch factories in England in the belief that the new British tariff wall is likely to be both solid and permanent.

According to Captain Parkhouse, who is connected with D. M. Collins and Co. here and is closely associated with the Lord Derby interests in England, "The American manufacturer is faced with complete loss of British business in a short time and with the loss of trade in the British dominions in the near future unless he establishes a branch factory in England."

"The concensus of opinion in England today," said Captain Parkhouse, "is that the British manufacturer is now going to have the greatest opportunity for an increase in export trade that he had had in

OPPOSES EXTENSION OF WATER DIVERSION

Columbus, Ohio —(CPA)— Attorney General Gilbert Bettman Thursday asked Secretary of War Patrick Hurley to take no action toward extending the time for stopping the city of Chicago from diverting water from Lake Michigan, until lake states are afforded a hearing.

Bettman appealed to the war secretary on being advised that the Chicago sanitary district was seeking an extension of the war department's order to reduce the diversion of lake water.

a long time, owing to England leaving the gold standard and adopting a general tariff. Furthermore, in England the manufacturers are preparing to obtain that trade in increasing volume.

"The American manufacturers in England have the same opportunity, if they live up to their world reputation of being go-getters. If, on the other hand, they are going to wait and see how their English trade is affected by the new tariffs, they are going to find the French, German, Belgium and other manufacturers established in England first."

"For example, some 10,000,000 pounds sterling worth of vacuum cleaners are imported annually into England, of which about 2,000,000 pounds sterling worth come from the United States. The opportunity presents itself for the Americans not only to retain the business already being done, but also to obtain the balance of this business."

"From now on the home market in England is not going to buy much in the way of manufactured goods from America, as American goods cannot compete with the English article owing to the new tariff wall. Regarding the dominions, it is highly probable that in the near future, a strong economic union, based on preferential tariffs, will be created between them and the mother country."

WILL DRAMATIZE "THE GOOD EARTH"

Owen Davis Secures Rights to Novel Written by Pearl Buck

BY WARD MOREHOUSE

New York —(CPA)— Owen Davis has written so many plays that he long ago lost count. The total is somewhere between 100 and 200. Oddly enough, his prodigious output includes but one dramatization of a novel. That novel was "The Great Gatsby," which was turned into a taut and convincing theatrical property. Mr. Davis now finds himself with the urge to dramatize another novel—with the urge and the rights.

After months of correspondence and weeks or months, Mr. Davis has entered into an agreement with Pearl Buck, who is in China, which gives him the dramatization rights to her best-selling novel, "The Good Earth."

The playwright, with his son, Donald, assisting, is already at work and two motion picture companies and two producers have already expressed a willingness and an eagerness to interest themselves financially.

Mr. Davis said today that "The Good Earth," as a play, will call for a terrific production, full of pageantry, and that his card-holding will have it ready for production next season. He intends taking his time, as he did in the case of "Icebound," "The Detour," and "The Great Gatsby" productions that turned out better than all right.

After an absence of several seasons Walker Whitehouse returned to Broadway Monday night and started an engagement at the Lyceum theater. His present vehicle is a melodramatic play by Frank Harvey, entitled "Three Men and a Woman," the action of which transpires in the

EMPLOYMENT GAINING AT AUTO BODY CONCERN

Milwaukee —(CPA)— An increased employment schedule at the Seaman Body corporation, which makes bodies for Nash automobiles, was announced today by Irving Seaman secretary and treasurer.

"At present we have on our payroll about twice the number of employees needed, and we alternate at their jobs to spread employment," Mr. Seaman explained. "Now, each day, we are putting a number on a full time basis. We hope that by the end of February our normal force will be back on full time jobs and that we may add to the number. Of course there is no predicting how many will be added, because that will depend on public reception of new Nash models."

Many old employees of the Nash plant in Kenosha are being recalled. In six weeks, some officials predicted, there will be work for 1,500 additional men in the Nash and Seaman plants.

Living room of a lighthouse off the coast of New Zealand. The play has been seen in London under the title of "Cape Forlorn." While Mr. Whiteside had the play on tour it was known as "Surf."

This veteran star, who wore a brown wig and looked much rejuvenated, is a genuine actor. Unlike so many stars he has never attempted to hold his public merely through personal charm. He has played many parts and every characterization has been different. He is that rare person, a star who is a "character actor."

"Laughing Boy," dramatization of Oliver La Farge's Pulitzer prize novel, the work of Olin Chatfield, will be presented in New Orleans Jan. 25 and will continue for "at least" eight performances. (Copyright, 1932, by The New York Sun)

WHERE PROTECTION IS NEEDED

Faced by a competitive situation that is certain to result in closing their mills and throwing thousands of men out of employment, pulp manufacturers of America are appealing to Congress to enact legislation that will have the effect of placing a duty upon pulp imports equal to the difference in the rate of money exchange between the United States and the countries from which the pulp is imported. Inasmuch as there are 37 pulp mills in Wisconsin, 16 of which manufacture sulphite pulp, most directly affected by this competitive condition, this state has a vital interest in urging protection that will enable this large industry to continue in existence.

For many years duty free imported pulp has been a serious competitor to American mills, confronted with vastly larger labor costs than foreign manufacturers, but this competition was made intolerable by abandonment of the gold standard by these competing countries and the consequent shrinkage in value of their currencies compared with American money. Foreign manufacturers, because of their exchange advantage, are offering their product, laid down at American mills, at a price below American manufacturing costs. It is not difficult to see that a continuance of this situation will result in annihilation of the industry in America and large additions to unemployment.

Wisconsin mills, modern in every respect and efficiently operated, paying current wage scales and current prices for wood, say they cannot manufacture bleached sulphite pulp for less than $55 per ton, yet foreign pulp is offered, laid down at mills in the Fox river valley, for far less than $50 a ton. Continuance of this situation leaves the American manufacturer but two alternatives, he must either close down his mills, or reduce his labor costs in all phases of the industry to less than subsistence levels, and even if this could be done it is doubtful if American mills could compete with foreigners possessing exchange advantages.

This deplorable situation can be ameliorated by congressional action setting up a tariff on pulp imports from all countries equal to the difference between the value of the currency of the United States and the exporting nation. This would restore the condition existing before demoralization of foreign currencies and enable American manufacturers to continue operations, although with little or no profit to themselves.

This condition as it applies to the pulp industry in this country as a whole and to Wisconsin in particular, is being placed before Wisconsin representatives in congress with an urgent plea that they interest themselves in obtaining relief. It is patent to any observer that unless protective action is taken at once Wisconsin mills will be forced to close down and several thousand more men will be compelled to rely upon public agencies for subsistence.

Appleton is particularly interested in this matter because of the tremendous importance of the pulp industry to the business of this community. Several hundred men are directly dependent upon pulp mills for their jobs and several hundred more jobs will be placed in serious jeopardy if these mills are abandoned. Already pulp manufacturers have ceased to buy wood with the view of closing down their mills when the present supply is exhausted, unless in the meantime relief from this intolerable foreign competition is obtained. Annihilation of the pulp industry here would be the most serious economic blow in the history of the state.

"HE LAUGHS BEST—"

While the pillage of the people permitted and augmented by the Chicago Sanitary District is still being proven and confessed by an increasing number of witnesses, not only disclosing whoopee parties of the wildest sort at public expense, the putting of an army of fat and greasy politicians who did not work on the public payroll, and the formation of fake companies to whom orders for materials were given at two or ten times the price for which they could be purchased elsewhere, the London Evening Star gets considerable solace out of the situation. It is balm to its wounded feelings.

It hasn't forgotten that Big Bill the Booster rode to power on a slogan of "Down with King George," thus emulating in the only manner of which he was capable, the fighting pioneers of our Revolutionary days. Says the Star:

"Chicago is in the position of some bankrupt Balkan village."

"While Big Bill Thompson was insulting King George and burning British classics important citizens of Chicago enjoyed the joke. There is nobody in Chicago now to make a joke about it, for the lesson is too plain that civic virtue is the foundation of fortune and success."

"We may not be as slick as they are in Chicago but our rogues, at least, have to be more clever than theirs."

The worst part of it is that this cowhiding from England is merited. Mr. Thompson rode to power as "a friend of the working man" when he wasn't "a friend of the plain people." Voters may be excused at times for being misled by pretensions but "Big Bill" was so raw, his work so clownish and the thievery of his gang so flagrant that even a grammar school pupil should have seen through it.

The Star makes one statement in its icy criticism that should not be forgotten. The statement that "civic virtue is the foundation of fortune and success" belongs to literature.

MIGHTY POOR JUDGMENT

The worst evidence of over-emphasis in football, or perhaps hysteria would be a better word, comes from the suspicion by the Southern California football management that one of its players, Hawkins, was disloyal and might pass the team signals to enemy team, resulting in putting him under the surveillance of a detective, who of course found nothing to sustain the suspicion but so angered and inflamed the player that he has quit school, announced a suit for damages against the university where he will seek but a dollar in coin but that anodyne so dear to every wronged person, vindication.

Even making all fair allowance for the excitement that naturally and quite properly arises on the eve of great athletic contests, the management that could so conduct itself as is charged against Southern California has lost all sense of proportion. It probably was not under the influence of intoxicants but it acted that way.

Football, according to its supporters, and we think that the general claim is true, builds character. A charge of this kind against a player made merely because he was friendly with some of the students at a Los Angeles university which was under the same religious control as that of the school with which Southern California was about to play, indicates too plainly that coaches themselves are not only dubious but have no faith in their own teachings.

It is hard to conjure up anything more cruel with which to strike a faithful contestant than a reflection upon his honor. The Hawkins suit may prove a helpful thing for football in general and curb some of this hysteria that prevails on coaching staffs before important games.

We in Wisconsin also have our football troubles. No one has been accused of disloyalty, nor has there been any visible over-emphasis, but the situation has assumed such magnitude that the state legislature has felt called upon to take a hand in an effort to determine if there is an Ethiopian in the kindling. Coaches, assistant coaches, captains, and players, have been asked to appear before the legislative committee and testify. Just what good all of this effort will bring is uncertain, but if the legislature can give Wisconsin a winning football team it will have accomplished something no one else has been able to do for many, many years. And that, indeed, would be a real service to football fans of the state.

NOT ONLY have they been getting snow out in Los Angeles way, while Appleburg basked in a January springtime, but they're faced with a new problem . . . out at the University of Southern California campus, social affairs are occasionally held . . . in fact, quite often . . . and every time there's a social function, the lady who owns the house across the street from the gymnasium proceeds to hang out a washing . . . and she hangs it in the front yard . . . and the washing consists entirely of underwear . . . tsk, tsk and again tsk, tsk . . . what we can't understand is why some enterprising U. S. sophomores haven't done something about it . . . like hanging the washing up on a lamp post block down the street . . .

REAL PEOPLE

The backbone of the nation is the happy-hearted throng
Or ordinary people who go swinging right along.
They live in modest houses and they work from day to day
And the papers never notice what they do or what they say,
For they're always keeping busy at life's commonplace affairs,
Planning futures for their children and what golden dreams are theirs!

They are settled in their habits and their views of wrong and right.
They are simple folk and friendly and they're often home at night.

They keep little backyard gardens and the mothers stitch and sew,
And the fathers all are saving for some joy they want to know.

They deal with hurt and sorrow with a faith they've learned to hold.
And they're patient with their children and they're mindful of the old.

They are honest with their neighbors, and they're honest in their play.
They are fond of mirth and music in a simple sort of way.

They believe in God and serve Him and you'll notice as a rule
They always send their children to a nearby Sunday school.

And in spite of all the sneering of the scornful or the base,
The simple, sturdy people are the backbone of the race.

Looking Backward

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

Friday, Jan. 18, 1907

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Le Blanc had returned to their home in Appleton after spending a few days at Green Bay as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Adolphus on Cherry-st.

Louis Bonini, Jr., was in Chicago the previous day on a brief business trip.

William Lanzon left that morning for Ebbing, Minn., where he had secured a position in the advertising department of a newspaper.

Robert Glaser was to leave the following day for Stanley to assume a position as engineer on a steam log loader on the Stanley, Merrill, and Phillips railroad.

Mrs. Peter Steffen was surprised at her home, 56 Cherry-st., the previous afternoon by a number of friends in honor of her birthday anniversary.

Mrs. Otto Bummeister entertained the Jolly Eight club at her home on Alvin-st. the preceding afternoon.

M. Abrahams, Milwaukee, was a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Peeserboon.

TEN YEARS AGO

Friday, Jan. 13, 1922

Socialist members of the International club, composed of University of Wisconsin students from foreign countries, were to be ousted at a meeting of the university Y. M. C. A. that night. A son was born that day to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stumpf, North Division-st.

George H. Beckley, secretary, was elected a director of the Appleton Building and Loan association at the annual meeting in the city hall the previous Thursday evening. He succeeded Henry Kranzsch whose term had expired.

Mrs. Fred Peterson and Mrs. Walter Hughes had returned from Milwaukee where they spent the first part of the week.

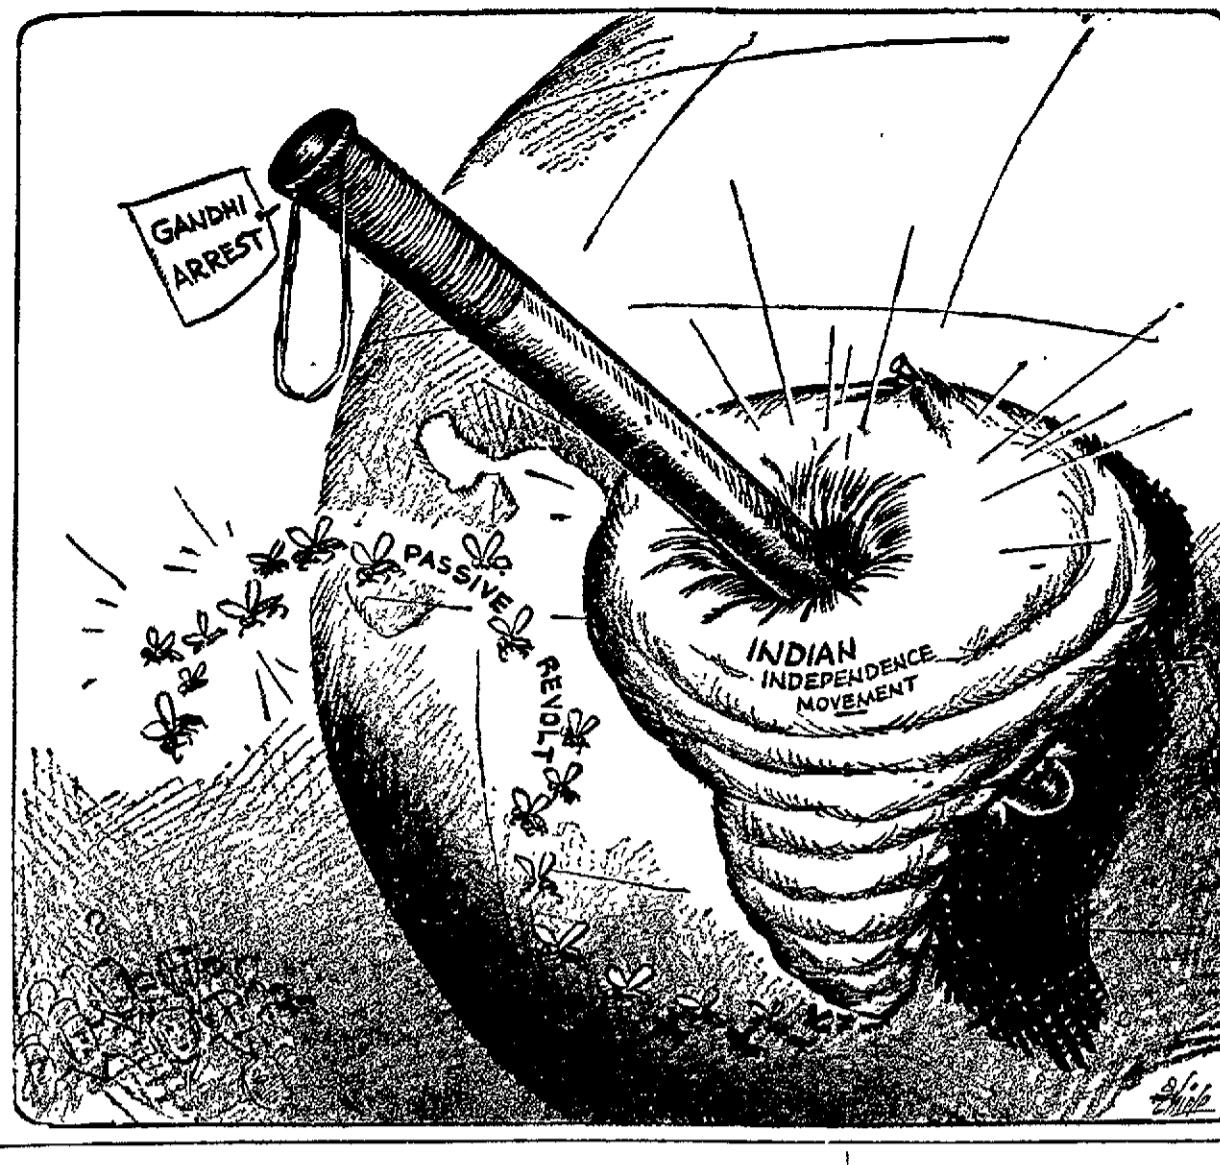

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Langenberg, Joseph E. Schweitzer, and R. G. Sykes had returned from the annual convention of the National Retail Shoe Dealers association at Chicago.

Delta Sigma Tau, a new fraternity at Lawrence college, was recently granted a charter by the faculty and was to move into quarters of its own beginning the second semester.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Thomas and Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Spencer were to chaperone the dancing party of Alpha Gamma Phi sorority the following Saturday evening at Elk hall.

Personal Health Talks

Noted Physician and Author

CASUAL OR ATOPIC ASTHMA

Not all that wheezes is asthma. Anybody with acute bronchitis may for brief period do a creditable job of solo wheezing. Then, too, a good many victims of chronic bronchitis eventually develop a regular chronic wheeze, or a chestful of whistles of assorted pitch. Mature or elderly subjects of emphysema (heaves) behave as though their chests or lungs were constantly overinflated, and that is precisely what ails them; such persons strive to deflate but are always a bit behind with it and hence always "out of breath," the in fact, as I say, they're fairly bursting with too much breath. The pathological state in emphysema is atrophy or loss of elasticity in the lungs, so that the air cells become permanently balloonized.

Another Specialist Gets Vexed

Thanks entirely to your encouragement I have gotten rid of my tonsils by the diathermy method. After one treatment I ate Philadelphia pepper pot and enjoyed every bit of it—which I consider an achievement. Five years ago one of the best throat specialists refused to remove my tonsils because I have had a heart. I still have the heart, but no tonsils. The specialist is quite vexed with me, too! (B. W. Proposes a Curb

Now he has come forward with a bill which seeks a curb campaign expenditures for the election of president, vice president, senators and representatives in congress.

Those who know Nye claim that the bill will reflect very closely the senator's own attitude on the subject:

" . . . We move much closer to that day when every public office in the United States will be placed on the auction block and virtually knocked down to the highest bidder."

The report of the senate committee which investigated the 1928 campaign alarms him greatly. This body, headed by Stewie of Oregon, found that Hoover's nomination cost $395,234, and Smith's $152,622.

The Stewie committee also reported that the ensuing campaign saw expenditures of $9,433,604 for the republican ticket, and $7,152,511 for the democratic.

But perhaps those boys who drafted the Declaration of Independence foresaw American freedom. Six million workers have had it for two years now.

Twenty-three countries have abandoned gold standard. About the only thing gold will be good for pretty soon is bridgework.

Independence is predicted for India in five years. Well, it was declared for us 155 years ago.

A newspaper survey shows business men prefer the Bible. Do business by Dunn and Bradstreet.

"Peaches" Browning was denied a divorce. So Daddy Browning still has his Peaches and cream.

French are calling smirky bankers, banksters. What chance has a poor gangster got?

Japanese have warned Chinese to flee. Must want to get the jump on them.

Japanese say they only want to be rid of Manchuria of bandits. And also, apparently, of Chinese.

And that's no biting remark.

Seen And Heard
In New York

BY WILLIAM GAINES

New York — There is one fellow who had better pay particular heed to that old adage against throwing stones if you live in a glass house.

Well, anyway, it largely of glass.

There's enough glass to make it look like it might be a florist's elaborate greenhouse or an old-fashioned movie studio.

It embodies the ideals of a local architect who has been sitting up nights digesting the modernistic housing principles of continental European builders.

It is located on Long Island not far from the birthplace of Walt Whitman. Walt's ghost might approve of anything so advanced if it happened to be wandering about.

Wallace K. Harrison will put all sorts of innovations into use when he moves in next spring. He'll be able to put his breakfast on the stove at night before he goes to bed and in the morning mechanical intelligence will guide an automaton's arm to start the fire at a given time.

The only thing we're worried about is, how is Mr. Harrison going to keep passersby from watching him while he eats his breakfast? Or don't people who live in glass houses care who throws a stare?

Those who work in the new can-tilever type buildings should not throw

HAWAIIANS IN MINORITY ON OWN ISLANDS

Find Japanese Are Largest Racial Groups, With Others Close Behind

BY PHELPS ADAMS

Washington—(CPA)—Races and laws clash in Hawaii, paradise of the Pacific, and also one of the melting pots of the world. Kipling to the contrary, east does meet west—and the meeting place is Hawaii.

After glancing at the 1930 census figures, it is easy to imagine the difficulties which confront the authorities in their attempts to impose Occidental laws on the Oriental living on the islands.

The Japanese are the largest logical group on the islands, while the pure Hawaiians are in a small minority. In a total population of 382,336 there are 139,651 Japanese, 12,552 or 3.4 per cent; Portuguese 27,588 or 7.5 per cent; Porto Ricans 6,671 or 1.8 per cent; Spaniards 1,219 or 0.3 per cent; other Caucasians, including Americans, English and Germans, 44,895 or 12.2 per cent; Chinese 37,179 or 7.4 per cent; Koreans 6,461 or 1.8 per cent; Filipinos 63,052 or 17.1 per cent; Negroes 563 or 0.2 per cent; other races 217 or 0.1 per cent.

Choose Own Laws

Each race considers some of the occidental laws more important than others and chooses to a degree which laws it will obey. The Americans violate the prohibition laws openly, although the prison records do not show this, for the violations are looked upon with some indulgence by the authorities.

The Chinese cling tenaciously to their racial belief in the right to import, use and tranship opium, and are the chief offenders against the narcotic laws.

The Filipinos specialize in crimes of violence, such as murder, assault with weapons and offenses against chastity.

The Hawaiians are the principal offenders against property and the criminals among them are imprisoned chiefly for burglary and larceny. The Japanese, to a much less degree, indulge principally in the crimes of which the Hawaiians and Filipinos are found guilty.

The total number of crimes and criminals, however, is small and the vast preponderance of the residents of the island are law-abiding people.

Due to Invasion

Such evils as exist there are due primarily to the invasion of the island by colonists and planters, for while racial differences rarely lead to crime the chief source of difficulty is explained by two things: the number of inhabitants greatly exceeds the number of jobs available and the number of males vastly exceeds the number of females.

Prohibition has added to the flames. Bootleggers invaded Honolulu particularly, and the organized crime and racketeering known to the populous centers of the United States have gained a firm foothold in Hawaii. The natives, predominantly law-abiding and peaceful, resented this deeply. They asserted that the demand for booze comes primarily from tourists and the American service men, who insist upon drinking and dealing with these criminals.

Thus the antagonism has grown and for the first time since the United States took possession of the islands the population has begun to feed upon class hatred. Gangster crimes have become fairly common and it is charged that they have succeeded in corrupting the local authorities and controlling powerful politicians.

If January 16th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 a. m. to 11:30 a. m., from 2:30 p. m. to 3:30 p. m., and from 9 p. m. to 10:30 p. m. The danger periods are from noon to 1:45 p. m. and from 6 p. m. to 8 p. m.

The wheel of fortune will spin blindly, but with beneficial results, on January 16th. Material gains will be made through luck and not good management. Leave betting entirely alone, and do not speculate on the markets! Attend to fire risks, and see that they are covered!

The child born on this January 16th will have a high regard for itself and its own judgment. It will have a versatile nature, and be capable of doing several things well. It will be a great reader, but will have a poor memory.

The entertainment committee includes Miss Margaret Holley, chairman; Miss Cecelia Werner, and Miss Marion Clark and the refreshment committee consists of Miss Mary Schenck, chairman; Miss Meredith Bandy, and Miss Beatrice Meyer.

Mrs. Arthur Lembeck, 915 N. Fox-st, was hostess to the Berean Sunday school class of Emmanuel Evangelical church Thursday afternoon at her home. Mrs. Charles Selig was assistant hostess. Twenty-five members and three children were present. A social hour followed the business meeting. The next meeting will be the second Thursday in February with Mrs. Otto Polzin, Onida-st.

The crew of the Orient of the Methodist church met Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. George Nolting, 1426 N. Durkee st. Plans were made for a chicken supper to be held next Wednesday at the church from 6:30 to 7:30 o'clock. Mrs. Will Holt and Mrs. George Nolting are captains of the crew.

The Missionary society of Trinity English Lutheran church will serve a supper for the public from 5 to 7 o'clock Saturday night in the sub auditorium of the church. Mrs. J. Homboltke will be chairman of the dining room, and Mrs. Herman Kottke will have charge of the kitchen.

Organization of a Bible class at Trinity English Lutheran church will take place at a meeting at 7:30 Friday night in the sub auditorium of the church. The entire congregation is invited to join. The Rev. Dr. E. Bosserman will have charge of the class.

The social committee and officers of the City-Wide Young People's Council will meet at 2:30 Sunday afternoon at the Y. M. C. A. The program for the party to be held Feb. 12 will be arranged at this time.

The Ladies Aid society of St. Matthew church met Thursday afternoon in the church basement, 25 members attending. A social hour followed the business meeting. The committee in charge included Mrs. Fred Hoffman, Mrs. Fred Jentz, Mrs. C. Jahnke, and Mrs. William McCarey.

PARTIES

About 50 couples attended the card party and dance for Knights of Columbus and their ladies given by Father Fitzmaurice council Thursday night at Catholic home. Prizes at bridge were awarded to A. A. Gritzner, Hugh Garvey, Mrs. Louis Stenger, and Mrs. William Ferron, and at schafkopf to John Glasnap and Pat Miron. A lunch was served. J. M. Van Rooy and his committee had charge of the event.

Twenty-five relatives and friends surprised Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Clow, 830 W. Eighth-st, Wednesday night at their home. Cards were played and prizes won by Thomas Callahan, Mrs. Louis Wachol and William Schultz. Out of town guests were Mrs. Anna Peraux, and Lloyd Peraux, Green Bay; Mr. and Mrs. Louis Wachol, Kaukauna; and Paul Solomon, Neenah.

Patronesses and senior members of Alpha Delta Pi sorority were guests of the alumnae at a dinner Thursday night at the home of Mrs. A. F. Kletzen, E. Alton-st. Covers were laid for 35 persons. The evening was spent informally. The next regular meeting of the alumnae association will be the second Thursday in February at the home of Mrs. Ward Wheeler, Green Bay-st.

Past Matrons of Appleton will be guests of the Kaukauna Past Matrons of Eastern Star at a 6:15 dinner Friday night at Hotel Kaukauna. About 17 members from Appleton will be present.

Twelve tables were in play at the card party given by the Ladies Aid

BISHOP WILL BE SPEAKER NEXT MONTH

Bishop L. H. Saeger, D. D., senior bishop of the Evangelical church, will be the special speaker for the Day of Prayer Sunday, Feb. 14, at Emmanuel Evangelical church. He will give two addresses, one at 10:45 in the morning which will be under the auspices of the Women's Missionary society, and one at 2:30 in the afternoon which will be in the interest of men's work in the church. The choir will sing two special numbers. Members of the Missionary society will attend the services. Evangelical churches of Neenah and surrounding towns have been invited.

Mrs. Eggert New Leader Of Chapter

MRS. MARY EGGERT was elected president of Delta chapter, Employees Mutual Benefit association, at the annual business meeting Thursday afternoon at Odd Fellow hall. Other officers include Mrs. Murna Weller, vice president; Mrs. Rachel McCabe, secretary; Mrs. Marie Ashmus, treasurer; Mrs. Pat Ferguson, first director; Mrs. Mollie Deichen, second director, and Mrs. Anna Mensinger, third director.

Plans were made for installation of officers to be held Jan. 28, when cards will follow the meeting. Forty-two members were present.

Knights of Pythias were entertained with boxing bouts by high school and Lawrence college participants after the meeting Thursday night at Castle hall. The college bout resulted in a draw, and William Wiese won the decision in the high school bout.

Robert Schmidt reported on last Saturday's card party and announced that there will be another one Saturday night at the hall. Charles Young was in charge of refreshments, and volleyball was played. Thirty-five members were present.

A party to dedicate the new lodge rooms was held by Women of the Moose at their meeting Wednesday night in Moose hall. Cards were played and prizes were won at bridge by Mrs. Otto Zuehike and Mrs. Clara Rank, and at schafkopf by Mrs. Minnie Davis and Mrs. B. Gamsky. About 45 members were present. A lunch was served.

Plans were made for a benefit card party to be held at 2:30 next Tuesday afternoon at the hall.

About 12 members of Loyal Order of Moose of Appleton attended a meeting of the Fond du Lac Lodge Thursday night. The date for the next Fox River Valley Moose legion frolic was set for Feb. 7 at Fond du Lac. A membership contest was inaugurated between Appleton and Fond du Lac for the class initiation frolic. This will be the first frolic at which the new officers will preside. E. E. Cahill, Appleton, is Great North Moose.

Miss Frieda Koppin was installed as organist and Mrs. Myra E. Hagen as marshal of Fidelity chapter No. 34, Order of Eastern Star, at the ceremonies Wednesday night at Masonic temple. Miss Koppin accompanied George Nixon who sang several vocal selections and also played organ solos.

ELECT KRUEGER PRESIDENT OF CHURCH GROUP

Harold Krueger was elected president of St. John Brotherhood at a meeting held Tuesday night. He succeeds Louis Lettmann, who was named secretary. W. C. Willhams is the new vice president, and Albert Haase, treasurer.

Other retiring officers are E. L. Kleist, vice president, George Krueger, secretary, and Otto Voelker, treasurer.

society of St. Joseph church Thursday afternoon at the parish hall. Prizes at schafkopf were won by Mrs. Else Fischer and Mrs. Dora Welhouse, and at plumpjack and dice will be played. Mrs. Ray Flanagan, captain and Mrs. John Paltzer, assistant captain, will be in charge.

Group No. 1 of St. Therese church will sponsor a card party at 8 o'clock Wednesday evening at the parish hall. Schafkopf, bridge, plumpjack and dice will be played. Mrs. Ray Flanagan, captain and Mrs. John Paltzer, assistant captain, will be in charge.

Help Child Overcome Lie-Telling

BY ANGELO PATRI

You have discovered that your child is not as truthful as you hoped. He or she, this fault knows no sex, has told you a story that didn't stand up in the light of day. Well, take heart. Children have done so since the beginning. As soon as they learn that words can be put to good use in times of stress, they use them. Telling the truth about things, especially about those things that are likely to bring discredit and punishment upon us, is an adult conception and an adult practice. It takes many years of thoughtful experience to induce us to tell a straight unvarnished tale. A lifetime is none too long for that achievement and it has been known to take long.

When a child tells you an untruth listen for its overtones. Do they thrill with fear, boasting, mistaken loyalty? What is their essence? The actual untruth is not what you want to set right. The feeling, the thought behind it is what you have to reach. That is never on the surface. It shines through in the words, in the circumstances, in the manner of the tale. Hold your tongue and listen and watch until you catch the reason for the error and set to work at the root of the trouble. You can do a much better job that way than by working at the surface.

You can easily detect the lie of defense. A child breaks something he cherishes. Immediately he says "I didn't do it" and you know he did. Instead of flying into a rage at his mistake and his covering of it, keep still. Gather up the pieces and when your spirit is under control, when your fear has subsided, tell him: "I know you wouldn't do that if you could help it. It was an accident. When you have an accident tell me about it and we'll do our best to mend it. You mustn't let your fear cheat you into being a coward."

The child will immediately surrender. His mood will change. He will try to be careful, too and not break your things.

Little children call upon their imaginations for their tales. You can soon defeat that and set it right by telling the child: "That was a good makebelieve story. Tell me a true one now. I like true ones best."

The adolescent child tells lies in order to cover conduct that you disapprove. Silence until the right opportunity comes for confidences and then a heart-to-heart talk to reach a common understanding. It is our fault when adolescent children tell us lies. We have failed to keep the door of communication open between us. We have tried to impose age and experience upon unknowing youth and we have made mistakes in the attempt. We have said "No" too often and "Yes" not enough. We have not gone along with the children but have held back in our ruts.

Our attitudes are all important in this matter of truth telling. We have to teach it by precept and example day in, day out, for it takes a

DENYES WILL GIVE LECTURES ON RELIGION

Prof. J. R. Denyes of Lawrence college will begin the first of a series of ten open lectures on the Evolution of Religious Thought at 9:45 Sunday morning at the meeting of the Men's club of the First Congregational church. The meeting is open to all men in the community. It will be held in the church parlors.

Dr. Denyes has spent many years in Borneo, Sumatra, India and parts of Africa where he has seen the evolution of religion take place among the natives. His lectures are among the topics sponsored by the Men's club, which is a discussion group.

The committee in charge of the lectures include Dr. D. S. Reynolds, Carl Forseen, Earl Lutz, C. C. Nelson and Frank Younger, president of the organization.

MISS MILLER BECOMES BRIDE AT MILWAUKEE

Pedro J. Urmeneta, export manager of Phoenix Hosiery Co. and Miss Theodora Miller, formerly of Appleton, were married last Saturday in Milwaukee. Mrs. Urmeneta was employed at Pettibone-Peabody Co. in 1911, leaving Appleton to be a buyer in a large Milwaukee store in 1915.

Mr. and Mrs. Urmeneta were married at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Fitzgibbon. They left for New York after the ceremony. Mr. Urmeneta has sailed for Africa on a business trip while Mrs. Urmeneta will return to Milwaukee.

34 UNEMPLOYED MEN ARE SHOVELING SNOW

Thirty-four men who have been in the ranks of the unemployed were put to work this morning to clear city streets of the snow which fell last night, according to Theodore Albrecht, city street commissioner. Approximately four inches of snow fell here during the past 12 hours, Mr. Albrecht says. It is hoped to have College and adjoining business streets cleared before tonight so that the snow will not be packed down and cause treacherous driving, he stated.

The regular force of snow shovels employed by the street department is composed of about 25 men.

Asks Aid In Preserving Wild Life

Country is as profligate with natural resources as the United States", Mrs. Edward La Budde, Milwaukee, state chairman of conservation in the federation of Woman's clubs, told Appleton club women Thursday afternoon at the January meeting of the Appleton Woman's club.

"Man has no power of creation of resources in the earth such as metals and minerals", she continued, "but he does have creative powers upon the earth in reforestation.

Plans will be made for a charity card party, the proceeds of which will be turned over to Appleton Welfare and Relief council. A membership drive to last two months will be inaugurated at this time, and a social hour will follow.

Cards were played after the business meeting, prizes of which were won by Mrs. J. Immel and Mrs. R. Brandtmeyer, Neenah, who was a guest, and at a hundred rummy by Miss Gertrude Woods and Mrs. Arthur Benson.

Forests Save Lands

Barren lands throughout the country means the wasting away of the soil, Mrs. La Budde said, explaining that in this state the streams are filled with dirt every spring because of the land erosion. Thousands of tons of dirt are swept into the sea every year in this country because the lands have not been reforested to keep heavy rainfalls and snow from carrying the soil away, she said.

Miss Winnifred Russell, 1411 W. Franklin and Fred Schutte, 513 N. Ida-st, were married at 7 o'clock Thursday night at the home of the former. Dr. H. E. Peabody, pastor of First Congregational church, performed the ceremony, and attendants were Mrs. Hazel Glaser and Mrs. Gertrude Evans. Mr. and Mrs. Schutte will be at home after Feb. 1 at 513 N. She also praised the work of the Boy Scouts in the state, the electric companies and telephone companies which have taken an interest in the northern Wisconsin reforestation problem.

She declared that more organizations should sponsor the work or bird contests to interest city children in the protection of Wisconsin birds.

The talk followed the Woman's

AUXILIARY OF LEGION WOULD FORM COUNCIL

The organization of a county council will be discussed and election of delegates to it will take place at the meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary Monday night at Odd Fellow hall. Mrs. Otto La Budde, Marinette, president of the ninth district, is organizing councils in all counties of the district, and Mrs. H. W. Miller is temporary chairman for Outagamie-ko.

Plans will be made for a charity card party, the proceeds of which will be turned over to Appleton Welfare and Relief council.

Cards will be played after the business meeting, prizes of which will be won by Mrs. J. Immel and Mrs. R. Brandtmeyer, Neenah, who was a guest, and at a hundred rummy by Miss Gertrude Woods and Mrs. Arthur Benson.

Club Makes Plans For Card Party

LANS for an open card party to be held at Columbia hall in about two weeks were made at the meeting of St. Martha House.

Order of Martha, Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Richard Long, route 2, Appleton. Mrs. May Tillman and Mrs. Thomas Lander were appointed chairmen of the event, the exact date of which will be announced later. The party will be in the afternoon.

Cards were played after the business meeting, prizes of which were won by Mrs. J. Immel and Mrs. R. Brandtmeyer, Neenah, who was a guest, and at a hundred rummy by Miss Gertrude Woods and Mrs. Arthur Benson.

Miss Myrtle Moberg, Atlantic-st, entertained the Ocho club Thursday night at her home. Prizes at bridge were won by Miss Lorraine Reetz

MISS RUSSELL IS MARRIED TO FRED SCHUTTE

The Story of Sue

UE had asked Harry if he had seen the man who called for Sally Bradley.

Harry shook his head. "We were all in the recreation room downstairs. All but a few who wanted to be by themselves. He wouldn't come down. I don't know who he was. Sally excused herself and left. But what does that have to do with it? Of course she might have seen someone."

"No, she probably didn't," Sue answered. "But does your gardener know how the man arrived? Walking? Driving?"

"Is it important?" Harry asked. "Your eyes have a scrutinizing glance in them." He laughed. "I'll be building up an alibi next to prove that I didn't take your car."

"It may be important," Jack came to Sue's aid. "I think I see where she's going. Do you mind calling the gardener, Harry?"

"Nothing I'd like better than to speak a few words to the gentleman," Harry answered. "What do you want to know?"

"How this man arrived at your house," Sue prompted.

Harry came back from the telephone booth in just a minute.

"In a taxicab... but he dismissed it," he went on as though answering Sue's last question.

"Then how did Sally and the man get away from your house? Did they walk?" Jack asked.

"That's what I'd like to know," Harry answered. "The gardener says that everyone who left went in cars. Therefore, they evidently—

"Appropriated a car for their own use," Jack prompted. "And that car was my car. I'm pretty sure, and it was the same car that I saw at the rear of the hotel and if I don't miss my guess the girl who was meeting the man in the car was none other than Sally Bradley. I knew that woman reminded me of someone. Sally's the gal. Mark my words!"

They explained the incident more carefully to Harry.

"I'm building up a hypothetical case," Jack said. "Whoever the man with Sally was, he must have taken her away in a car. According to your gardener's story it had to be someone else's car. All right. Mine was missing for a while. It was in use during that time. The police can prove it. That's the car that he must have taken. Now the thing to do is to find out the man who was with Sally."

"That will be hard to do," Sue said slowly. "If she wouldn't show him off last night she isn't going to do it today."

"You are probably right," Jack answered. "I wish we had had any guests down in very late. Quite a while after Sally left. Do you recall any?"

"Nobody came," Harry rose again. "Excuse me and I'll page the crammer of my rose-bushes once more. You want to know if anyone came after Sally left, and parked a car? Is that it?"

When Harry came back he nodded his head gravely. "You're in the right profession, Jack. And you're a big help, Sue. A car did drive in. Looked just like one that had gone out. Whoever was in it, sat still for a while. The gardener walked back to the porch to keep an eye on the road and when he returned the car was empty. The man had disappeared. He thought he came into the house. That must have been your run-runner."

"And now we have to find the man," Jack was enjoying the quest.

GET AT ROOT OF DISORDER TO CLEAR THE SKIN

BY ALICIA HART

Muddy complexions often are due to organic disorders. If you face the new year with a muddy complexion, make sure it isn't the result of some stomach trouble, bad circulation or a general run-down condition.

If you are in top-notch health and your complexion isn't clear, you should do something about it or know why.

Begin by taking a cup of hot water with the juice of half a lemon in it when you first get up. Then do a few minutes' exercises to liven up and start your circulation properly. Make sure you get plenty of sleep for a few weeks and above all, eat sparingly of rich foods that tax digestion.

If your skin is oily, start clearing up your muddiness with a face pack. These little packs do more than just cleanse the skin, though that is what they are for. They impart a sort of magic glow to the skin that is infectious and makes you realize how nice you can look. They spur you on to making yourself ever more beautiful!

Facial packs are mixtures of herbs and other ingredients, done up in little gauze bags. You can make them yourself or buy them at any reputable beauty salon or drug store. If you make them yourself have your cheesecloth bags about three to four inches square and divide the following mixture between ten of them: One cup of almond meal, one teaspoon of orris root, one teaspoon lavender leaf, one teaspoon of borax, two thirds cup of castile soap shavings, cut very fine. Pound all your ingredients together before putting into the bags.

When you get ready to use a pack, dip it in warm water, not too hot, and use it just as you would a wash cloth. It is too drying for sensitive, thin skins that already lack oil. But for a muddy skin, one over-oily, it does wonders. It also has an astringent effect.

Be sure to rinse your face off with cold water, patting it onto your face in upward strokes to prevent the tightening effect of the pack.

It's a slimming type you'll love with its bias hip seaming. The trouser legs are cut with circular fullness, giving the effect of a skirt when not in motion.

One of the loveliest and most practical material for this model is sapphire blue crepe silk. Printed silks are also lovely.

For southern resort for beach a horizontally striped linen is snappy. Make the sash, neck frill and sleeves of plain linen in predominating tone.

Style No. 2631 may be had in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20 years, 36 and 38 inches bust. Size 16 requires 38 yards 38-inch.

DISCUSS WAYS OF HANDLING POOR RELIEF

Regional Conference of Social Workers Is Held at Neenah

Neenah—Methods of handling the problem connected with Wisconsin's unemployed, through public and private relief agencies, were discussed at a regional conference of welfare workers at Neenah yesterday. The meeting was conducted by the Wisconsin Conference of Social Work, and Aubrey W. Williams, Madison, executive secretary of the organization, presided.

Mr. Williams, Captain Henry Servais of the Salvation Army at Appleton and C. D. Rajah, Neenah, were among the speakers at the morning session. At noon a luncheon was served at the Valley Inn, at which Judge Silas Spangler was in charge.

One of the chief problems facing welfare agencies today is that of extending help to Wisconsin's army of transients, which now numbers between 7,000 and 10,000, according to Mr. Williams. Many of these men, it is thought, were forced to become transients through circumstances over which they had no control. Many of them are facing a critical time in life when, if proper steps are taken by the right agencies, these men can be added back to their proper field of work, it was brought out.

The various speakers at the hearing told of how they are handling the unemployment and transient problems in their fields.

Speakers at the afternoon session included: Miss Edith Foster, Milwaukee, head of the welfare bureau of that city, who told of methods employed there; Miss Edna Roddis, of the bureau of family service at Oshkosh; J. T. Donnelly, city manager at Two Rivers; the Rev. Paul McKinney, Watertown; the Rev. H. C. Head, Green Bay; P. G. Winner of the unemployment research bureau of the state industrial commission.

BYLOW AGAIN HEADS SPORTSMAN'S CLUB

Annual Meeting of Twin City Organization Held Last Night

Neenah—John Bylow was reelected president of Twin City Sportsman's club at a meeting Thursday evening at Dandom Brotherhood hall. Other officers are: Emmett Christoferson, first vice president; Walter Lovejoy, second vice president; Lawrence Eisenach, secretary; and Arthur Niles, treasurer.

The club discussed the pheasant situation on its game reserve in town of Winchester, where several hundred of these birds have been released. It was decided to conduct a checkup of the birds and to make arrangements for their shelter and protection during the winter.

Following the business session, a schafkopf tournament was held. Prizes were won by Kenneth Asmus, A. Cummings, M. Reinko and Walter Lovejoy. Lunch was served by wives of the members.

CHARGE YOUTHS TOOK CAR WITHOUT CONSENT

Neenah—Two young youths were arraigned in municipal court at Oshkosh Wednesday on charges of taking a car without consent of the owner. Their arrest resulted from a ride from the Danarlane dance hall, in the town of Menasha, which terminated in an accident. The defendants are Edward Braemer, employed at Menasha, and Herman Sauer, working on a farm on Highway 125 near Menasha. The owner of the car is Frank Manteufel, who resides on Highway 26, north of Gillingham's corners.

The car was taken to the dance hall by the owner's son, Walter, who alleges the other two youths, with whom he was acquainted, took the car without consent. An affidavit was taken prior to issuance of the warrant. Contentions of the defendants also have been revealed they alleging they had frequently been permitted to borrow the car and their use of it the evening of Jan. 9 was not unusual except for the termination in an accident. Preliminary examination was set by the court for the morning of Jan. 15, and the youths required to post a bond of $300 each.

OVERHEAD CROSSINGS CLOSED DURING WINTER

Neenah—Overhead crossings built last fall at points where Highway 26 intersects the Soo line railway tracks will be closed for the remainder of the winter, E. M. Eard, county highway commissioner, stated Thursday.

While they were not officially opened to the public, traffic had been permitted on them by those who cared to use the grade separation. Detours used during the time the viaducts were being built are still marked and traffic is being sent over them.

The viaducts have been closed for the winter because of the danger due to the absence of hard surfaced roadbeds.

ORDER PAYMENT OF $2,000 TO WOMAN

Supreme Court Reduces Amount to Be Paid by Husband in Divorce Action

Neenah—Reduction of the amount allowed Mrs. Frieda Perloff in a property division with her former husband, Jacob Perloff, Neenah, has been ordered by the state supreme court.

Perloff, who obtained a divorce on a counter claim last April in county court, need pay his wife only $2,000 instead of $5,000. The supreme court modified and affirmed the judgment of County Judge McDonald who heard the case.

The husband appealed from the portion of the judgment relating to division of property, and the wife appealed from the granting of the divorce to her husband. The only issue actively argued before the higher court, however, related to the matter of property division.

The wife first brought suit for a limited divorce, followed by counterclaim from Mr. Perloff, demanding absolute divorce on the grounds of cruelty and inhuman treatment. The state supreme court found that the testimony amply sustained the findings of the court as to the treatment of the husband alleged he suffered at the hands of his wife and agreed a final division of property was proper, but found that payment of $5,000 would be excessive in view of the size of the estate.

Perloff will have until 60 days from Jan. 15 to pay the $2,000. The high court also affirmed the order of Judge McDonald that he pay $30 a month for support of a minor child.

LODGE OFFICERS TO RECEIVE INSTRUCTION

Neenah—A school of instruction for commanders of the Fox River Valley will be held Saturday at Masonic temple. Appleton, Oshkosh, Fond du Lac, Berlin and Beaver Dam commanderies will be represented at the sessions, which will open at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

An adjournment will be taken at 6 o'clock to the Valley Inn, where a dinner will be served. Work will be resumed after the dinner. Those in charge are William F. Weller, Chippewa Falls, and George F. Nevitt, Oshkosh, grand commandery officers.

NURSES APPROPRIATE FUNDS FOR CLINIC

Menasha—Appropriation of funds for a dental clinic in Menasha and Neenah was made at a meeting of the Twin City Visiting Nurse's association at the public library Wednesday. Plans for the clinic will be made by a committee in cooperation with the school health departments of both cities.

Following a regular monthly report, revealing that $60 calls had been made by the association during December, Dr. A. C. Gifford, Oshkosh dentist, explained the operation of a dental clinic in Oshkosh.

MENASHA TEAMS IN BOWLING TOURNEY

Artco Inks, Hendy Recreations Expected to Make Fine Showing

Menasha—Two crack teams, the Hendy Recreation squad and the Artco Inks, will represent Menasha in the National American bowling congress tournament at Detroit, Mich., early in April, according to local authorities. Nearly 3,000 five man teams are expected to enter the national meet.

The Hendy team, former city champions, has taken high honors in both state and national tournaments in past years and with the same personnel this season, should perform well in the Detroit tournament. The squad includes E. Osterdag, R. Kellenhauser, C. A. Hendy, William Tuchscherer and P. Borenz.

The Artco Inks have battled the Hendy team for local honors on several occasions and have established a number of records in local and state bowling. Like the Hendy squad the Inks have had considerable tournament experience. The team includes C. Pierce, George Pierce, W. Pierce, James Krysiak, and Michael Malouf.

Both teams are entered in the Wisconsin state tournament and will bowl at Kenosha Feb. 28 and 29. The Pankratz Fuels of Menasha also have completed arrangements for participation in the state meet.

MENASHA SOCIETY

Menasha—Mrs. Ida Watkins was named president of the Menasha Garden club at a meeting in the home of Miss Barbara Thom Wednesday evening. Miss Budde Dudley was elected vice president and Mrs. H. E. Bullard secretary and treasurer. Following the election several persons on gardening activities were read.

DEBATERS WILL MEET MARION AND ALGOMA

Menasha—Menasha high school debaters will meet Marion and Algoma in the first round of inter-scholastic competition this season, according to information received today by R. J. Fink, high school principal. A triangle including Menasha, Neenah and Kaukauna will be arranged for the second round, foreseen officials have revealed.

In inter-scholastic dramatic competition, Menasha high school will compete against Kaukauna and Algoma. No dates for either debate or dramatic contests have been announced.

The play will be produced by one of the largest casts ever included in a twin city production and will be presented in costume. Construction of scenery is under way. Music for the production will be directed by G. Unser, St. Mary high school band instructor.

DRASTIC GROUP TO PRESENT COMEDY

Menasha—For the first time since its organization in 1928, the Winnebago Players, twin city dramatic group, are planning the production of a three-act comedy, staged indoors. The twin city group has gained a unique reputation throughout state amateur dramatic circles by confining productions to summer plays produced entirely out of doors with natural summer settings.

The play will be given in March, will be somewhat of an experiment for the group in the field of indoor play dramatic production. No date has been set, but a play reading committee will select an appropriate play in the near future and tryouts and rehearsals will follow as soon as possible.

The play will be produced by one of the largest casts ever included in a twin city production and will be presented in costume. Construction of scenery is under way. Music for the production will be directed by G. Unser, St. Mary high school band instructor.

PREPARED AUTOMOBILE IS DAMAGED BY FIRE

Menasha—Fire of unknown origin damaged a car owned by Harry Humphrey, 112 Broad-st, about 11:30 Thursday evening.

Humphrey parked his car on Broad-st about 11 o'clock and a report that the machine was burning was received by the Menasha fire department from a Broad-st resident about a half hour later.

The blaze had gained considerable headway before it was noticed, and considerable damage was done.

TAXATION PLAN UP TO CONGRESS, MEMBERS TOLD

First Need Is to Balance Budget, Regardless of Plan, Hoover Holds

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright, 1932 by Post Pub. Co.

Washington—The Hoover administration has challenged congress to balance the budget. After several weeks of jockeying between the Democrats and the Republicans the administration has taken the offensive once more in an endeavor to bring about a balanced budget for the fiscal year beginning next July. The Democrats have promised to submit their own program but have not yet made it public. The treasury department speaking for the administration, has now given the details of its plan but at the same time has taken the position that it will not quibble over tax rates or a formula so long as the objective—a balanced budget—is assured.

This has switched the responsibility squarely on congress either to accept the treasury plan or give the country a better one. The test of any plan is whether it produces the necessary revenue. On this the treasury has an advantage because it has made a much more thorough investigation of what kinds of taxes will yield revenues than has any committee of congress.

Decline In Incomes

The biggest disclosure made by Secretary Mellon in his latest communication to the house ways and means committee is the way the so-called rich people of the country have lost incomes. Whereas there used to be 375,000 persons with incomes over $10,000 a year there now are only 253,000. The drop in income to the government in the group earning $10,000 or over is approximately $663,000,000. When it is noted that the total receipts from income taxes dropped from $1,164,000 in 1928 to $473,000,000 in 1930 it will be seen that $690,000,000 has been lost in taxes on the entire income tax and that all but $26,000,000 came from the group earning $10,000 a year or over.

The situation in the class with incomes from $5,000 to $10,000 was not quite so bad. There was a falling off in tax paid of only $4,000,000, namely from $21,000,000 to $17,000,000. There are now 506,000 taxpayers with incomes between $5,000 and $10,000 a year instead of 561,000 in 1928. Some idea of the clumsiness of the present tax system can be obtained when it is observed that the federal government now gets only $17,000,000 out of 506,000 taxpayers whereas it used to receive $1,109,000,000 from 275,000 individuals and because of the depression this has been cut down to $446,000,000, a loss of over $663,000,000.

Broader Taxation

Under such circumstances the treasury department takes its stand definitely on the thesis that a broader base of taxation must be reached and that instead of depending on the ups and downs in business of only about 768,000 individuals with incomes over $5,000 a year, more revenue must be obtained from the groups below $5,000 a year. It is estimated that the treasury plan to return to the 1924 tax law will bring back into the tax paying group about 1,700,000 individuals so that the federal taxpayers would total in the neighborhood of 3,500,000. In a nation of 130,000,000 people this is relatively small number, namely about 3% per cent. As a matter of fact even under the proposed laws fewer than 30,000 people, or 4 of 1 per cent, would contribute 90 per cent of the total tax.

The chief argument in congress will be as to what taxes can be easily administered in the least.

The suggestions of a selected number of sales taxes are bound to meet heavy opposition from strong

CITY GETS $37,100 AS GAS TAX SHARE

Check for Appleton's Allotment Received from State Treasurer

A check for $37,184.84, Appleton's allotment of the gas tax, was received Thursday morning by F. E. Bachman, city treasurer, from the Wisconsin highway commission.

According to the commission this is approximately the amount collected by Appleton from the property tax on motor vehicles levied in the year 1930. To determine the amount the tax commission assumed that the tax collected on motor vehicles bears the same ratio to the total personal property tax collected up to the time when the delinquent tax roll was delivered to the county treasurer as the assessed value of motor vehicles bears to the assessed value of all personal property. However, it was pointed out by Mr. Bachman, the city loses money by this method of figuring, because at the time the delinquent tax roll was turned over to the county, Appleton had 10 and 12 thousand dollars in delinquent personal property taxes.

GOVERNOR JUDD TO ASK SEVERE LAWS OF HIS LEGISLATURE

Favors Death Penalty or Life Imprisonment for Crime of Rape

Honolulu—(P)—In efforts to curb assaults upon women in Honolulu, Gov. Lawrence M. Judd expects to recommend to the forthcoming special session of the Hawaiian legislature that the crime of rape be made punishable by death or life imprisonment.

The governor so announced in a cable to Secretary Wilbur of the interior department, in which he defended himself against congressional charges of partial responsibility for the city's crime situation.

While Judd prepared for the legislative session Monday, defense attorneys charged at the delinquent grand jury that the governor was guilty of assault upon a Chinese girl in 1929 and now is held as one of the attackers of Mrs. Granville Fortescue, society leader, her son-in-law, Lieut. Thomas Nissle, and two enlisted men.

"The defendants are held without bond and are entitled to be informed promptly as to the nature of the charges against them," said Montgomery Winn of the Fortescue-Missle staff. "The hands of the defense are tied."

Deputy Prosecutor Griffith Wright said the case would not be presented to the grand jury until next week.

He explained the prosecution has not completed its investigation of the slaying of Joseph Kahahawai,

Though this amount was collected later, Appleton gets no compensation from the state for the delinquent tax.

Lawrence Opens Midwest Conference Season Here Saturday Night

MEETS CORNELL COLLEGE FIVE AT ALEXANDER GYM

Rafoth Still Out of Competition; Colbert, Felts at Center

COACH Arthur C. Denney of Lawrence college will trot his protégés before the home folks Saturday evening when Lawrence basketball team meets Cornell college five in a Midwest conference game. The contest is the first Midwest tussle for the Vikings this season and the second time the boys have appeared before the home folks.

Drills during the last few days have been designed to brush off the rough places in the Viking offense that cropped up last Monday night at Ripon when Benny Rafoth was forced to sit on the bench and Bill Colbert jump center.

Rafoth Still Out

Rafoth still is among the missing nursing a battered nose and will not see action Saturday. In his place Denney has been working Sid Felts, Jankey center, and Colbert with indications that Colbert will get the first nod.

Felts is tall but lacks the experience and aggressiveness that Denney would like to have him show. However, with Colbert at center, a great forward combination in Colbert and Hall is broken. Bill Foote has been working as forward and Willie Haase is back at his guard position.

The Ripon defeat, although only a Big Four game, still smarts in the minds of the Vikings and with the knowledge that Midwest competition is getting under way, the boys want a win as a starter. The Crimson defeat has been chalked up as "one of those things" and attributed mostly to the fact the alumni almost wrecked the Vikings when they put Rafoth on the shelf a day before the game with the Crimson.

There also were several defensive errors Monday night that Denney is correcting. One is a defense for the out of bounds play that Ripon scored on several times. The Vikings have the same play and to be caught flat footed when an opponent pulls the stink is bad, very bad.

Invaders Unknown

Mighty little is known of the invaders. They have beaten Coe college this season and tonight are performing against Ripon at Ripon. That will be a point in favor of Lawrence for physically the invaders probably will not be at their best.

The Iowa Methodists are coached by a former University of Michigan cager and probably will show a type of game unfamiliar to the Vikings.

Only one game is on the card for Saturday night and it will get under way at 8 o'clock. The home appearance of the squad is the first since early in November when the team defeated St. Norbert five here. Since then the Vikings have beaten Marquette, Teachers, and Michigan School of Mines and have been beaten by Marquette university and Ripon.

A. A. BALL TEAMS TO USE BUSES, PLANES

Use Highways for Short Hops, Air for Long Jaunts, Hickey Says

Chicago.—(P)—The entire American association may be up in the air next summer—players, umpires, and all.

Because of the great distance between the eastern and western clubs, the club owners of the big double A circuit today had under consideration a plan whereby all long hops may be made by airplanes, and the shorter ones by buses.

The move is an economy measure, as the club owners failed in their negotiations to obtain rates from railroads.

Thomas J. Hickey, president of the league, said today a meeting probably would be held here Feb. 1 to vote on the airplane idea.

Under the plan it is proposed to lease two airplanes of the twelve passenger, three-motor type. Two machines will be required to transport an entire club.

"I am heartily in favor of the idea," President Hickey said today. "We can save time, and save money. It no longer will be necessary for players to remain over in Chicago in making the jumps between Columbus or Toledo and Minneapolis and St. Paul.

"By using the planes we can save a day on the hops, doing away with many open dates. It also will be much cheaper than railroad rates."

DIESEL SETS RECORD AT AGUA CALIENTE

Turns in 68 to Take Lead in $15,000 Open Championship Meet

Chicago.—(P)—How much dynamite there is in King Levinsky's right hand will be determined to-night at the Chicago Stadium.

The King's biggest test will be supplied in a ten round battle with Paulino Uzcudun, whose cast iron features and sturdy frame have withstood the blasts of virtually every real puncher in the boxing business, without so much as a knock-down. If Levinsky, whose most recent important achievement was a 10 round decision over Tommy Loughran, whom he knocked down four times, can get the durable Basque off his feet, the most doubting will believe he can punch.

Against the King's wild, but ever busy right, Paulino will present his craglike defense, ceaseless body attack and apparently limitless endurance, and what little wagering there has been, has been done at 8 to 5 and 7 to 5, that the Basque will win the decision. Paulino will weigh around 198 pounds, and Levinsky will scale about four pounds less.

Midget bowlers in the Women's City league won three more games this week and top the league by a full nine games. The Cards were the latest victims of the leaders.

G. Johnson rolled 181 in the first game, and with A. Mundlinger hit 180 in the second game. The third win was by five pins and brought about by A. Mundlinger, P. Fellows with 177, 166, 181 rolled for the Cards.

Kickapoos won the first two games from the Scrubs with M. Kranzusch's 199 and V. Dunham's 175. In the last game R. Conlon hit 176 for the Scrubs.

Scrubs won two games from Nick Nacks. Mensinger had 179 in the first, Arcades win and S. Roudabush 132 in the second. The Nicks coped the third game with a 221 by C. Hager.

DEMOCRATS IN CAMPAIGN FOR ELECTION FUNDS

Prominent Party Speakers Address Followers at "Victory" Dinners

Portland, Me., that the Republican party is "bereft of real leadership" and that "a change is necessary."

At Wilmington, Del., mention of the names of James M. Cox, John W. Davis, Franklin D. Roosevelt, Alfred E. Smith, Gov. Albert E. Ritchie of Maryland, and Owen D. Young brought applause. Prolonged cheering followed the statement at the Atlanta, Ga., dinner that the nation might be "rescued from the morass by a Democratic party under the leadership of Franklin D. Roosevelt."

No subscriptions were sought at last night's dinners, but the campaign was well under way today. Of the $1,500,000 needed to erase the party's deficit and provide funds for the campaign, approximately $225,000 already has been obtained.

URGES FAIR PLAY

New York—(P)—Strict adherence to the principles of fair play in the Democratic presidential campaign was the keynote struck by Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, potential choice of his party, in his address last night before 3,000 guests at the New York Democratic "Victory banquet" at Hotel Astor.

While open in his assertion that "the president of the United States and his associates have perhaps shown incapacity to contribute leadership in the solving of a national crisis," he declared that Democracy "can never tolerate abuse against the person of the president of the United States."

He regretted, he said, that there were those "who had forgotten their sense of fair play to the extent of making the president the subject of jests."

Pleading for a campaign "free from prejudice," Governor Roosevelt however, declared that "the battle of Democracy is pointed not at the rank and file of the historic Republican party but at those who today direct its policies."

He was applauded for a suggestion that the states designate certain fields of taxation in which the federal government might raise its expense money and then let the states raise their tax money in the remaining fields.

Hall Is Crowded
The crowded ballroom of the old hotel, which has been the scene of many a famous banquet, was filled, and so were two balconies, as the governor mounted a dais at one end of the large room to help open the Democrats' $1,500,000 campaign fund drive.

They cheered him for a full minute before he began and again when he finished. They also cheered and thumped the table when a telegram was read from Alfred E. Smith, who was speaking in Boston.

Nearly 1,000 of the 3,000 pledged themselves in writing to help raise the war chest for the coming presidential fight.

Virtually all the leaders of Democracy in the middle east were at the speakers' table, behind a battery of microphones and in the glare of powerful calcined lights.

John J. Raskob, Democratic national chairman, sat near the governor and smiled when the crowd cheered at every mention of his name and his work for the party.

Tammany was represented by John F. Curry, its leader. Grover A. Whalen, "the best dressed police commissioner New York ever had," was there in full dress and said a few words.

The rally ended with John W. Davis, 1923, standard bearer, and Representative Henry T. Rainey of Illinois, majority leader of the house, predicting "victory in 1932," with the help of the $1,500,000 fund now being sought.

"OVER DRAFT AGE"
Boston—(P)—Alfred E. Smith says he's "over the draft age" and beyond that refuses to commit himself on the question of his candidacy for the Democratic presidential nomination.

New York's former governor smiled contentedly as Daniel J. Gallagher, former U. S. attorney, jumped to a chair during the victory dinner of Massachusetts Democrats last night to call on "Al" to go slow with his name "because the party's going to draft you."

Mr. Smith's reply that he was over the draft age was the only allusion he made during the evening to the possibility of his own candidacy.

He urged 2,000 wildly cheering Democrats to join in a united effort to restore their party to power by abandoning their traditional custom of finding fault with the Republican party and launching forth on a constructive program of their own.

Mr. Smith's route to success in the coming presidential election would be an open declaration for resubmission of the prohibition issue to the several states, an advocacy of a gigantic federal bond issue for the expansion and improvement of public works and a consolidation of the forces of the party throughout the nation on an all the year working basis.

He took the Democrats to task for the party's past vacillation in "taking an extended vacation of three years" between elections and he blasted the Republican party for its "timidity on the subject of prohibition."

Wants "Honest" Stand
"Let us," he said, "make a frank, open and honest declaration about what we intend to do on the issue of prohibition and we shall have a tremendous advantage on the opposition."

"Always," he charged, "the Democrats cease to function after a defeat until the January of election year."

He insisted that the tariff produced no votes and advocated the abandonment of the practice of condemning the Republicans' tariff measures.

BEATING THE ODDS

Longfellow once stated, "Never give up; 'tis the secret of glory." The Bridge player who finds his pleasure in battling against seemingly insurmountable odds, using as his instrument the pasteboard representations of armies, is merely picturing the struggle of life itself. When a player has overcome what at first appeared to be insuperable difficulties and triumphantly achieves his end, he has right to a measure of satisfaction.

In the hand below, my friend, Dr. I. H. Shelly of Philadelphia, playing in a Duplicate game at the Wissahickon Bridge Club there, found plenty of obstacles in the way of the achievement of his contract.

North and South vulnerable. East and West not vulnerable. South, Dealer.

The Bidding:
(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

1—North's hand does not have a suit with which to force. His hand contains magnificent support for the proposed trump suit and in addition 33 other tricks. While not quite strong enough to bid for the Slam, it does justify a Slam try by overbidding the game.

2—While South's Opening bid was made on a four-card suit, his hand does contain additional values over those required for an Opening bid, even though vulwritten party doctrine on the tariff and take it to the voters.

Mr. Smith maintained that relief for the unemployed could be found in his suggested federal bond issue. "The country," he said, "is not on a peace time basis. A state of war exists against unemployment, malnutrition, misery, and suffering.

ASSEMBLY WANTS INVESTIGATION OF HISTORY BOOKS

Wriston Would Be Placed on Committee Under Resolution Now in Senate

Dr. Henry M. Wriston, president of Lawrence college, would be named a member of a committee to study veracity of history text book statements on the blame of causing the World war, under terms of resolution passed by the assembly yesterday and sent to the senate for consideration.

The resolution replaced one passed by the senate, claiming more than 13 history texts falsely placed the blame on Germany. The resolution, introduced by Sen. John Cashman, Denmark, also claimed that placing the blame on Germany gave an excuse for "ruthless plunder" of the Central powers; that the war actually was caused by a spirit of militarism prevalent throughout Europe at the time, and that the Versailles treaty was "ingenuous and ruthless" and a menace to world peace.

The resolution adopted today would appoint a committee of nine presidents of Wisconsin colleges and universities to study statements by history textbooks regarding causes of the World war. Books which the committee finds make false statements shall be stricken from the list of text books approved for use in Wisconsin public schools the resolution provides.

Presidents of the following institutions would be members of the committee: the University of Wisconsin; Marquette university, Concordia, and Downer, Carroll, Ripon, Lawrence, Beloit, and Northwestern colleges.

RIVALS IN CAR BUSINESS OFTEN WORK TOGETHER

Find Competition and Cooperation Weld Producers to Benefit Consumer

BY BRADLEY W. TRENT
Copyright, 1932, By Cons. Press
New York—(CPA)—The automobile industry, perhaps better than any other line of American business, welds the spirit of cooperation and competition together for the benefit of the ultimate consumer. One gets this impression from a visit to the National Automobile show, now in progress here, and from interviews with automotive officials.

Among the throngs of visitors drawn to the automobile show here are executives of many allied lines, their sales staffs, and their engineering forces. The engineers provide that spirit of cooperation that enables the automotive industry to give good dollar value to the public, while the former groups compel the offering of real values.

Behind the scenes at the show one might observe a man looking quizzically over a new model. Perhaps this interested observer is an engineer employed by a competing automobile corporation. This unusually close examination of the new motor model does not mean that the automotive engineer is "stealing" an eyeful of facts from a competitor, but rather that he is appraising a job in which perhaps he himself has taken part.

Competitors Friends

An engineer with whom this writer had an interview apologized for being late at the appointment and introduced his companion, who was none other than the chief engineer of the company's closest competitor. Expressing amazement that the two were so friendly, the former volunteered the information that he had just come from his competitor's factory, where he had spent three weeks helping to solve a difficult problem.

Further questioning of the engineers brought out the fact that most of these men are skilled in one line to the extent that on one particular branch of their work they are considered the authority in the industry. Therefore, engineers from competing companies seek their advice on knotty problems in their field, and vice versa.

This pooling of engineering problems, while more or less guaranteed as a trade secret, has enabled the American automotive manufacturer to give the car and truck purchaser unusual value for his money. Engineering ethics, of course, prevents the stealing of ideas from competitors, so that the spirit of co-operation rebounds to the benefit of all companies and to the actual purchaser of the vehicle as well.

On the other hand, the executive and sales forces of automobile corporations represent competition developed almost to the keenest degree. The attempt to keep up mass production, and thereby hold down costs, necessitates volume distribution, which in turn requires excellent salesmanship. The automobile business is one of the industries that all during the slump has kept its sales as intact as possible and constantly on the job.

Interviews with advertising agencies and publicity experts strengthen the impression that the motor industry is quick to sense all new ideas in distribution and marketing. All of which explains why motor

ADVISES VILLAGE TO HOLD SECOND ELECTION

MADISON (AP)—After a hearing here, Wednesday, A. R. MacDonald of the state public service commission, advised residents of the village of Brooklyn to hold another special election regarding the purchase of the Wisconsin Power and Light Company's property if the company

"I have no doubt," he said, "that the people of Brooklyn would again vote to purchase the utility property."

The company objected to the election, stating the notice for the election was not legally carried out.

COMMISSION TO MAKE PROBE OF BROADCASTING

Senate Would Ascertain Justification of Advertising on Air

BY ROBERT MACK

Copyright, 1932, By Cons. Press

Washington—(CPA)—The innermost secrets of American broadcasting, including all financial and corporate affairs, will be pried into by the federal radio commission at the behest of the United States senate to ascertain the justification of advertising on the air.

Instructions to this end were given in the commission this week following the passage of the Couzens-Dill resolution, which is founded upon the "growing dissatisfaction with the present use of radio facilities for purposes of commercial advertising." The commission immediately laid its plans for gathering the information, which likely will entail several months and probably will not be forwarded to the senate until the next session.

Although it is admitted openly in most congressional circles that there is little likelihood of government ownership of broadcasting in this country, the resolution nevertheless calls upon the commission to determine the feasibility of government ownership and operation. Virtually all European countries have government radio monopolies, with the radio bill paid by annual taxes on receiving sets. In the United States the industry is supported by sponsored programs, with advertisers footing the bill.

Resolution By Couzens

Senator Couzens, (Rep.) Mich., introduced his resolution last week. It propounds seven specific points into which the commission must inquire. Senator Dill, (Dem.) Washington, subsequently offered a rider, accepted by the Michigan senator, adding eight questions relating to educational broadcasting and seeking information as to why the commission has not administered educational broadcasting in a more comprehensive manner.

The Couzens resolution, among other things, will bring out how much time is devoted to commercial advertising over stations in the different power categories, and what plans might be adopted to reduce, limit, control, or even eliminate advertising on the air. Much of the information requested already is in the files of the commission, but the most important phases will require further investigation. Questionnaires likely will be sent out to all stations seeking detailed financial information and itemized accounts of advertising programs. It is presumed also that a general hearing will be called to wind up the survey, at which leading figures in the industry will be questioned.

It seems apparent that the small stations will bear the brunt of the advertising criticism. Because of their local status, they are forced in many instances to accept advertising accounts in which prices are quoted. Commission experience divulges that they are the most flagrant violators of the "good taste" in advertising standards, because of the economic factors. The networks, however, have been criticized by members of congress for blatant advertising, and it is expected too, that house-cleaning will be recommended on that score.

BILL ASKS CONTROL OF U. S. AIRLINES

Bratton Measure Would Put Aerial Transport Under I. C. C. Regulation

Washington—(AP)—An attempt to bring the far-flung airlines of the United States under the same control which regulates the railroads, is on in congress.

A bill to place aerial transport under the Interstate Commerce commission has been introduced by Senator Bratton, Democrat, New Mexico. Besides the regulatory feature, Bratton would set up a declaration of national policy toward aviation development.

The bill will be studied by the Interstate commerce committee of which Senator Couzens, Republican, Michigan, is chairman. Couzens has planned hearings on other measures designed to bring unregulated forms of transport, such as interstate bus lines, under the commission which rules the railroads.

In the policy declaration of the bill, Bratton invoked not only coordination of air commerce with the rest of the transportation system as a national objective, but also declared for maintenance and development of lighted airways, landing fields and flying equipment on the basis of their military use in time of war. Under the regulatory features the I. C. C. would be given authority over any mergers, consolidations or purchases of airlines by other lines. Rate schedules would be under commission supervision, and bonding or insurance requirements would be set up to provide a maximum of $10,000 per passenger in case of injury or death.

For intelligent and sympathetic regulation, Bratton would have the membership of the commission include at all times one man possessed of special knowledge of air transportation.

DEBATE NOMINEE FOR HIGH COURT

If Democrat Is Named, Hoover Expected to Choose Senator Walsh

Washington—(AP)—Advisers of President Hoover are scanning the lists of available names for a successor to Oliver Wendell Holmes on the supreme court, and present speculation points to a choice from the southwest.

This section of the country now is unrepresented on the high tribunal. Neither President Hoover nor any of his aides have indicated any choice in this direction yet, but it is understood the subject has been discussed with Postmaster General Brown, intimate of the president.

Calling at the capitol yesterday he talked to senate Republican leaders including Watson of Indiana, and Moses of New Hampshire. They are understood to have recommended Senator Walsh of Montana, in case the president should determine to pick a Democrat. Also they endorsed Senator Bratton of New Mexico.

These two stand out among the Democratic possibilities, but the names of two circuit court judges, George T. McDermott of Topeka, Kansas, and Arba S. Van Valkenburgh of Kansas City, are heard in the speculation.

There is no assurance that the president will fill the place of Holmes, a Republican, with a Democrat, but should he, it is believed the strength behind Walsh would give him the post.

The Atlantic seaboard is the one section ruled out of present speculation on the successor. Four of the eight members of the court now come from the southwest.

DO UNTO OTHERS

Utica, N. Y.—"Twas a cold morning, and Fred DiPerna was ruining his entire day by laboriously trying to crank his frozen car. Along came a fellow motorist and offered to push him until his car started. Later the same afternoon Fred came upon a motorist in the same fix he was. "Want a shove?" asked Fred.

LIBRARY RECEIVES CITY DIRECTORIES

A directory library, containing directories from most Wisconsin cities and dozens of municipalities in other states, has been established at the Appleton public library. The collection is being supplied by the Association of North American Directory Publishers.

Wisconsin directories now available, include those from Milwaukee, Madison, Kenosha, Racine, Manitowoc, Chippewa Falls, Beloit, Green Bay, Oconomowoc, Wausau, Stevens Point, Sheboygan, Rhinelander, Eau Claire, Watertown, Sturgeon Bay, Merrill and LaCrosse. The books cannot be taken from the library although the public is free to use them for any length of time in the library.

The motorist looked up. It was the same fellow who obligingly pushed Fred in the morning. "That makes us even," said Fred, as he finished the job.

In the event that any of the three plans included in the report were undertaken, a pumping station at

Neenah-Menasha, raising the sewage about 20 feet, would be adviable, Greeley pointed out. The intercepting pipe lines, collecting the sewage from the existing outlets on the river, would be constructed, in the main, on the south side of the river with laterals crossing wherever necessary.

Following construction of the system, the annual cost of maintenance would be about $35,000, although a reduction probably could be effected by central administration.

The methods of financing the project were explained by L. F. Warwick, state sanitary engineer. Pointing out the advantages of central administration, Warwick explained

how a sewerage district could be organized, under the state metropolitan sewerage district statute, which would include all municipalities effectected by the project. Following organization of the district, three commmissioners would be appointed and given corporate powers. The commission would have no jurisdiction over the lateral service sewers in use at present, but would be able to issue bonds as the metropolitan disposal needs materialized. The bonds issued by the commissioners would not be included in the bonded in-debt of the municipalities, he stated.

Clear Water Needed

Warwick also discussed the growing public demand for clear streams and said that the elimination of abnormal pollution would result in agricultural, industrial, and recreational benefit. Although considerable progress has been made in several locality throughout the state, the policy of the Fox River is an acute problem, he maintained.

A number of questions were an-solved by Warwick and Greeley, but further steps were delayed until the final typewritten report of the engineers' survey is available for acceptance by the engineers' committee and the mayors and presidents of communities involved. Mayor

Goodland of Appleton suggested that further explanation of the report be made at a meeting of officials in the group in Kaukauna, Little Chute,

Kimberly, and Combined Locks, and at similar meetings in Appleton and

Neenah-Menasha. A general meeting at Appleton, attended by all city officials and interested parties, will follow.

Didn't Back Bill

Shortly after the opening of the meeting, Mayor Taylor Brown of Oshkosh stated that his city had not sponsored a recent bill submitted in the Wisconsin legislature that would urge congress to reduce the level of Lake Winnebago to 15 inci-ches above the crest of the Menasha dam. The bill, which passed the assembly but was defeated in the senate, partly through the efforts of the municipalities association, was sponsored by the Association for the Relief of High Water, it was revealed.

Absolute fairness to all communi-cities interested in the level of Lake

Winnebago was to be sought, Mayor

Brown stated.

That the legalization of four per cent beer is a paramount issue in the United States at present and that the municipalities association should petition congress and the president for modification of the eighteenth amendment, also was suggested by

Mayor Brown. Although he stated that he was not a champion of the "wets," Brown maintained that the modification measure would do much to pare the national deficit, reduce unemployment, and diminish

the growing disrepect for law and order. In closing he deplored the frequent confusion of the Fox river valley of Wisconsin with the Fox river valley of Illinois, and suggested that measures to distinguish the Wisconsin locality be taken.

Name Is Changed

On motion of Mayor George Sande

of Neenah, the name of the association was changed to the "Fox River

Valley of Wisconsin Municipalities association." In seconding the motion, Alderman T. E. McGillian of Menasha reemphasized Mayor Taylor Brown's statements about the attitude of the city of Oshkosh and its officials toward measures concerning the level of Lake Winnebago.

PROGRAM READY FOR OPENING OF LAWE-ST BRIDGE

John Reynolds, Attorney General, Speaks at Kaukauna Tomorrow

Kaukauna—Formal opening of the new Lawe-st bridge will take place here Saturday afternoon. John Reynolds, attorney general, will be the principal speaker instead of Governor Phil LaFollette, according to Mayor B. W. Fargo.

A parade will start at 2 o'clock from Hotel Kaukauna. The parade will be made up of the high school band, a firing squad composed of legionaires, state, county, and city officials, in cars. The parade will proceed up Doty-st to Desnoyer-st, turn on Wisconsin-ave to the intersection of Lawe-st. The dedication and official opening will take place at 2:50 with Miss Margaret Fargo, the mayor's daughter, cutting the ribbon.

Continuing across the new structure, the parade will go to Second-st, thence West on Second-st to Ream-ave, south to Third-st, east to Crooks-ave, south to Second-st, and west to Main-ave, turning to Oak-st and to the auditorium. Here the program will open with music by the high school band.

An opening address will be given by Mayor B. W. Fargo, followed by talks by John D. Lawe, presentation of the bridge to the state highway commission by Harry D. Meyers of the state commission, city of Kaukauna and the county.

Students To Sing "On Wisconsin" will be sung jointly by the high school glee club, under direction of Miss Lucille Austin, and the audience. Attorney General Reynolds will then speak. Following this address there will be music by the high school band, under direction of O. E. Thompson.

The bridge has been completed at a cost of $207,000, borne by the city, county, and state. Highway 65 will be routed over the new structure. Cost of the structure was paid as follows: Outagamie-co, $60,000; city of Kaukauna $40,000; and state, the remainder.

Nearly 100 men from the immediate vicinity were employed on the bridge since construction started early in March. An old iron and steel structure was removed to make way for the new bridge. The old bridge had served the city for nearly 50 years.

Members of the program committee to arrange the dedicatory ceremony are William Carnot, R. H. McCarty, Herbert F. Weckwerth, L. F. Nelson, L. J. Brelzen, W. Cooper, and Dale Andrews. All of them represent some organization active in civic affairs here.

The bridge is being named after John Lawe, Kaukauna's oldest resident and is being dedicated to Kaukauna fathers and mothers.
